MORE STARTLING IRREGULARITIES UNCOVERED IN RECOUNT

Counsel for Corbett Protests Mayoralty Vote in Three Precincts—Braden's Lead Reduced to 81 Votes—Recount is Still On.

The mayoralty recount at city hall at 8 o'clock this afternoon had progressed through precinct 2 of ward 9, leaving but three precincts to be counted. In precincts 3 and 4 of ward 8, Corbett gained two votes and Braden lost one and in precinct 1 of ward 9, Corbett gained another. Braden's lead now is reduced to 81 votes.

Protests of the mayoralty vote in three precincts of the city has been entered with the election commission by Attorney J. Corbett, who was defeated for nomination in the city primaries by 101 votes, and on whose petition the present mayoralty recount is being conducted.

Attorney Sullivan's first protest was entered yesterday afternoon when the ballot box of ward 1, precinct 2 was brought into the recount room with the seal broken.

This morning a protest was entered against the mayoralty vote in ward 7, precinct 4, when it was found that there was no seal on the bottom of the box, although there was a small seal on the side.

The third protest was brought about when George Pearson, in charge of the ballots, reported to Chairman Hugh C. McOsker of the election commission, that the seal on the ballot box of ward 9, precinct 6 of ward 9 is broken.

The protest in precinct 4 of ward 7, was further protested when it was discovered there was no mayoralty tally and, according to Mr. Corbett's representatives, no method of checking the recount figures.

No action on the many protests had been taken by the election commission at noon today and it is doubtful if any will be forthcoming until the recount is completed some time tomorrow.

Chairman Hugh C. McOsker of the commission said, however, in a Sun reporter, that in his opinion, the broken seals were caused by the ballot boxes being handled roughly. To what extent the protests might be carried, the election commission adjourned for lunch.

BRITAIN TO DEMAND PROBE AND ARREST OF ASSAILANTS OF STACK

Representations to Egyptian Government as Result of Attempt to Assassinate Sir Lee Stack, Sirdar of the Egyptian Army, in Cairo Yesterday

LONDON, Nov. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Immediate action will be demanded by the British government in representations to the Egyptian government as a result of the attempt on the life of Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army, in Cairo yesterday, it was indicated in official quarters today.

Several of the cabinet ministers were at No. 10 Downing street during the forenoon and their conference with the premier are expected to lead to the despatch of a sharp note to Cairo. This note will probably demand immediate investigation of the affair and the arrest of the assailants and may touch upon the subject of stopping the circulation of anti-British propaganda in Egypt.

SIX GUNMEN MADE ATTACK CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 20.—(By the Associated Press).—Major-General Sir Lee Stack, the sirdar of the Egyptian army, who was wounded by assassins yesterday, passed a good night and there was some improvement noted, but his condition this morning was still very serious.

Six or more gunmen, using both bombs and automatic pistols, were concerned in the attack and the sirdar was struck by three bullets, suffering wounds in the abdomen, one hand and one foot. After an operation for transfusion of blood last night surgeons expressed hope for recovery.

In a communiqué issued today Zagloul Pasha roundly condemned the attack on the sirdar and appealed to the nation to unite in rooting out the criminals.

He denounced all who resort to criminal violence.

CAIRO, Nov. 20. (By the Associated Press).—The condition of Major-General Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army, who was wounded yesterday by assassins, was reported this evening as extremely serious. It was said that he had lost ground during the afternoon.

DAWES PLAN HAS RESTORED CONFIDENCE IN GERMANY

America's Reparation Experts, Who Went to Europe To Straighten Out Post-War Financial Muddle Returned on Homeric Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—America's reparations experts, who have been in Europe to straighten out the post-war financial muddle, returned on the steamship Homeric today convinced that the Dawes plan already had restored confidence to Germany.

All agree that the installation of the plan in Germany will be greater success than its framers expected. The party included Owen D. Young, originator of the technical features of the plan; Rufus Dawes, brother of the vice-president-elect, who had charge of the Berlin office of the agency-general of reparations; H. M. Robinson of Los Angeles, who had charge of the organization of the reparations bank; and George P. Auld, who organized the accounting service.

Germany already has met all payments under the Dawes plan to date. Mr. Young says, and as a result of the recent $200,000,000 loan, payments for

DRAFT CITIZENS FROM STREET TO COMPLETE JURY PANEL HERE

Deputy Sheriffs Sent Out By Judge Greenhalge When Regular Panel is Exhausted in Tort Actions Against Eastern Mass. Street Railway Co.

Men were drafted off the street for jury duty in the superior civil court here today when the panel was exhausted in an attempt to secure 12 jurors to hear five actions of tort brought by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. Challenges from jurors reduced the available panel to such an extent that only 11 jurors were needed to sit on the case and the court ordered sheriffs to go outside and select another man. Deputy Sheriffs Charles Larchette took up stridingly positions outside the court house building in Gorham street and in a few minutes had selected men, who were marched into the court room. The third man of the six called was Martin E. Duffy, insurance salesman, who was acceptable and the jury was complete. They were at once set out on a view and excused until 2 p.m.

The five actions of tort that will be tried together are brought by John B. Carter, William A. Chandler, Peter C. Tracy, Louis Smith and J. N. Chandler & Son, Inc., Tewksbury, who sue in the total amount of $25,000 to recover for injuries sustained when the automobile truck in which they were riding in Tewksbury on Oct. 12, 1922, was in collision with an electric car.

James H. Vahey of Boston and William H. Wilson of this city appear for the plaintiffs, with Trull, Wier & O'Donnell for the railway company.

The second major change in the standing of Messrs. Braden and Corbett came yesterday when it was discovered that 30 votes had been credited to the former in ward 7, precinct 1, belonging to Mr. Brown. This change, and a few other minor changes in yesterday afternoon's recount cut Mr. Braden's lead, which was 161 votes when the recount started and which had gone to 120 as a result of the first day's recount, to 86 votes. Mr. Corbett's net gain of one vote this morning cut the lead again to 85 votes.

With the recount of the second precinct of ward 8 completed at 12 o'clock this morning, the session was adjourned for lunch.

a configuration. Time after time as hose and engine companies strove to keep it confined within the store area where it originated, brands were carried to roofs of buildings several hundred feet distant, the high school annex in Paton street catching at one time for a moment.

In the narrow alleyway in the rear of the building, firemen literally were placed with their backs to the wall and bursting hose reduced water pressure to a low point at the nozzles for a short time, but Chief Edward F. Saunders said today that this temporary loss of power did not hold back the department's fight to any great extent. Four lengths of hose that burst in several places were purchased three or four years ago. No new hose burst. Pump pressure delivered before hose lines were entirely straightened out was responsible for the bursting, the chief said.

Everyone who visited the fire scene today was impressed with the narrow area in which the flames were confined

Christmas Trading Loss Staggering

Coming at the very threshold of the Christmas holiday season, when shopping is at the peak for the year, the loss in business will be staggering and entirely beyond estimation. Especially is this true of the Wardell and Prince stores, whose stocks have a particular holiday attraction.

"It hardly could have come at a worse time in the year," said Arthur D. Prince this forenoon, who placed his merchandise loss at $10,000.

Thomas Wardell would not make a statement regarding his loss, but intimated that it was almost complete and mentioned the destruction of about 200 Victrolas and 20 pianos, several of the latter being brand new and placed on the salesroom floor only a day or so ago. Musical instruments also represent a heavy loss.

C. Edward Coffey of the Prince-Coffey Co. said that his loss will not begin to compare with those suffered by the Prince and Wardell concerns, but stated that he cannot estimate its extent until a careful examination is made of his stock of silverware and jewelry.

Cyrus Fidler's Boston Ladies' Outfitter expressed the hope that his department store would re-open its doors

FRATERNAL NEWS

The 53d annual roll call of Samuel H. Hines Lodge, Knights of Pythias, was held Tuesday evening in Castle Hall, Bridge street. The affair opened with a banquet at 7 o'clock, at which were present 60 members of the lodge. The roll call followed a short business meeting, and as the name of Charles A. Davis was read, a barrel of apples from his farm in New Hampshire was rolled into the room. Lodges in this city and cities and towns within a 25-mile radius were represented, and the grand chancellor was represented by Past Grand Chancellor Harry H. Lawrence of Lawrence. Addresses of the evening were made by Mr. Lawrence and D.G.C. Louis Ellington. D.G.C. Elmer D. Robinson presented the Lodge a Pythian Bag which was won at the Boston Ballantine parade, Oct. 12.

A regular meeting of Lowell command, B.G.W.V. of A., was held Tuesday evening in the Free church with H. Robinson presiding. Routine business was transacted and the reports of several committees read and discussed.

Club Citizens-Americans met in regular session last night in the Middle street clubrooms with President Raoul Dionne in the chair. Chairman Lagasse of the entertainment committee reported on the recent whilst party and announced that an old-fashioned night would be held Thanksgiving evening in the club hall. Chairman Fred Harnois of the pool tournament announced that this event would begin next Monday evening and will be open to all members of the association. A number of communications were received and routine business transacted.

TALKED ON THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Prof. Arthur A. Stewart of the Lowell Textile school was the principal speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of the Highland Congregational church, and gave a very interesting discourse on the textile industry.

The meeting followed a supper which was served under the direction of Frank Cobb, President A. P. Clark presided at a short business meeting and introduced Prof. Stewart. In his talk on textiles and the textile industry, Prof. Stewart described the manufacturing of cotton and woolen cloth from the time the raw material enters the mill until it leaves as finished goods, and illustrated his talk with samples of various materials.

THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

Robert O. Small Addresses

Pupils of the State Normal School

State Supports 205 Vocational Schools With Total Enrollment of 63,910

Robert O. Small of the state department of vocational education, gave an interesting and instructive personal talk before the pupils of the Lowell State Normal school yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Small explained at length the scope of the vocational education bureau which has jurisdiction over the day and evening vocational schools, the part-time schools and the continuation schools. In explaining the work of the department Mr. Small said in part:

"The first and most important part of our work is to properly educate the teacher that she may understand the work we do. If you would be successful as teachers you must know infinitely more about this department than the majority of people."

"We are an isolated people in our work, but this is necessary to a great degree in order that we may shape our programs. Isolation, however, lessens efficiency. There was one time a conflict between general education and vocational education. Vocational education is but a supplement to general education. Vocational education trains the boy and girl for a position in life. Sometime, preliminary to leaving school, the child should have a training which will fit him to fill a place in the world's work. An argument against this fact is an argument against the fitting of the child to properly carry on a definite work in life."

"Mr. Small then gave data relating to the work of the vocational bureau which showed that in 1911 Massachusetts legislated in the effect that when cities or towns established a vocational school which was approved by the state 50 per cent of the cost of maintaining the school would be borne by the state.

"The vocational school, however, is not a part of the public school system in that it is not compulsory," continued the speaker. Although maintained by the public fund, these schools are not like the public schools which must be attended by the pupils.

"In Lowell there are four schools of this nature, the day industrial for boys; evening industrial for men and boys; girls' day school of home-making, and the evening school of practical arts. A fifth school of this kind is found in the continuation system. In addition to these five classes, the law provides four others, three in the field of agriculture and one in the field of industry."

As examples of agricultural schools

Ford Runs 57 Miles on Gallon of Gasoline

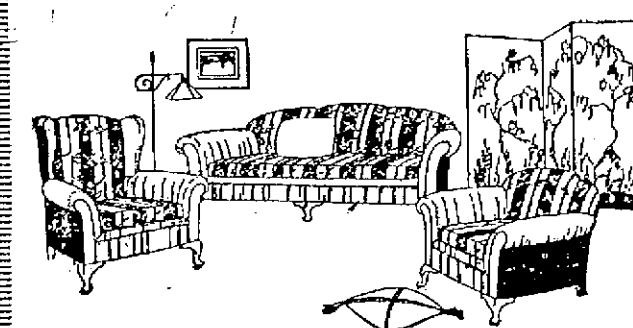

A new automatic and self-regulating device has been invented by John A. Stransky, 4508 Fourth St., Pukyana, South Dakota, with which automobiles have made from 35 to 57 miles on a gallon of gasoline. It removes carbon and reduces sparkplug trouble and overheating. It can be installed by anyone in five minutes. Mr. Stransky wants distribution and is willing to send a sample at his own risk. Write him today.—Adv.

"But, to operate these schools we must have teachers, and we are training them for the special courses which we teach in our schools."

"The state is supporting 205 vocational schools and has a total of 63,910 enrolled. Last year the state expended $1,152,000 for the maintenance of these schools, this sum being but half the actual total, the other half being paid by the communities in which the schools are located."

In closing Mr. Small urged the teacher to properly fit themselves for their work, that they might in turn assist others in choosing their vocation and teach them to follow their vocation in the best, most efficient manner.

This was the last lecture in a series given at the school under the general title, "The Relation of the Department to the Schools in the State." Owing to the holiday season no other series will be begun until after the Christmas recess.

Overstuffed Suites For Smaller Rooms

FREQUENTLY, customers ask us for upholstered furniture that is not too massive for the smaller rooms found in the modern house.

We have searched the furniture market and discovered this three-piece Stuffover Suite at one of the best manufacturers. It has all the comfort of the heavier suites without their clumsiness. See it at our store, covered in taupe velour and very attractively priced at $275. May be had in combination tapestry and velour covering as pictured, or all tapestry.

With this suite we are showing a Mahogany Davenport Table; special at $25.

MRS. HARDING IN SEMI-COMATOSE STATE

MARION, O., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding was in a semi-comatose state today at the White Oaks sanitarium of Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, where she has been at the point of death for the last week. Dr. Sawyer, in a bulletin, however, said that her heart action was fair.

The White House is keeping in constant touch with Dr. Sawyer; several inquiries were received last night from Washington concerning Mrs. Harding's condition.

Mr. Small mentioned the Essex County institution, which is an excellent type of agricultural school. He stated that high schools offered departments in which courses in agriculture are given. The best departments in this line are found not in the country schools, as is often the impression but in city schools. Roxbury high school offers one of the best courses in agriculture in the state.

In exploitation of the part-time school and the work accomplished by those attending, Mr. Small said:

"Those who attend the part-time school change regularly from the factory where they are employed to the school and learn their trade while they earn out their income. This is the most promising type of education today when the economic stress is so great. Parents sacrifice much that their children may be educated and too often the sacrifice made by parents is not appreciated by youths. The part-time school is fine for those who are forced to leave school at a relatively early age. It gives a valuable training to those who must help support the family."

"The world is suffering more today from the fact that people do not understand the needs of the world than from the fact that children must be kept in school. The world teaches much to the youth."

"In these part-time schools studies as well as trades are on the program. English is taught. We sometimes forget, however, that in the study of English the only fundamental reason for its being studied is to have others understand us when we talk and write, and to understand others when they address us. English is taught everywhere and it must be acquired in the learning of a trade. Arithmetic also is needed, and it is being taught in a practical way, not in the embalmed method which was taught in days gone by."

"The part-time school has a magical effect on the pupil and so ties up education with life work, in a special, pleasing way."

"Together with our vocational guidance work, we have a rehabilitating department and a 'teachers' training department. In the first-named bureau we train the injured, maimed man to do work which is specially suited to his type. People are horribly given the opportunity to learn of their ability and even though incapacitated for life, they are started on a new career which will carry them through."

"But, to operate these schools we must have teachers, and we are training them for the special courses which we teach in our schools."

"The state is supporting 205 vocational schools and has a total of 63,910 enrolled. Last year the state expended $1,152,000 for the maintenance of these schools, this sum being but half the actual total, the other half being paid by the communities in which the schools are located."

In closing Mr. Small urged the teacher to properly fit themselves for their work, that they might in turn assist others in choosing their vocation and teach them to follow their vocation in the best, most efficient manner.

This was the last lecture in a series given at the school under the general title, "The Relation of the Department to the Schools in the State." Owing to the holiday season no other series will be begun until after the Christmas recess.

LOWELL MAN GOES TO ITALY TO WED GIRL

—Chris Chrones, well known employee of Marie's Restaurant, leaves Lowell tonight for Providence, where tomorrow he will board a steamer for Italy to meet and marry his fiance, Miss Victoria Coutaki, of Greece.

Owing to immigration restrictions which prevented Miss Coutaki coming to America, the plan was devised to have her go to Italy, there to await the arrival of Mr. Chrones at Naples.

Arrangements have already been made for the marriage ceremony, after which the happy couple will sail for America. It is expected they will arrive here in about six weeks. They will make their home in Lowell.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors did my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and easily cured me. Years have passed and the curvature has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 1341 Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any doctors you are in contact with—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—Adv.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY FAIR
OPENS AT Y. M. C. A.

The annual fair of the Y.M.C.A. Woman's auxiliary was opened yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock with a large number of patrons in attendance. Booths festively decorated in black and gold streamers and novelties attracted many prospective holiday buyers bent on purchasing gifts and trinkets, of which there was an abundance offered on the many tables.

The feature yesterday was the beautiful chicken supper served at 6 o'clock to over 300 people. During the repast an entertainment program was given and at the conclusion of the supper "Bachelor Girls," an enjoyable sketch, was given by Misses Ruth Clough, Mary Livingston and Doris Senior.

The fair will continue this evening when the entertainment will be given by the Y. M. C. A. club. The program will consist of an old-timer's trio singing a collection of songs. Mose B. Williams, Donald Dean and Oscar Grabin will participate. Robert Burns will entertain with vocal solos, while Charles Ellis will give violin sections. A comedy skit by Harry Barton and Joseph Hollingsworth will be the feature of the evening's program.

Among the many booths and tables which offer attractive articles are the fancy work booth, Christmas cards, candy, ice cream, cake and candy tables, a booth, grab table and many other equally novel arrangements of desirable articles.

The committees in charge of the various tables and booths are as follows:

NOTED BALTIMORE BAND

COMING TO LOWELL

St. Mary's Industrial School band of Baltimore, Md.—50 pieces strong—with several feature soloists, comes to the Memorial Auditorium here next Sunday evening to give an elaborate concert program under the auspices of the Naverian Brothers of St. Patrick's parish. The members of the musical outfit range in years from 10 to 16, and occupy the same plane in instrumental music as the Paulish choristers. The band has been in existence fifty years, and is generally recognized as the best in the United States. Under the leadership of Brother Simon, C.F.X., the band has astounded the country by its skill. On two different occasions this band of young musicians has headed the inauguration day exercises in Washington.

The group of boys left Baltimore for a tour of the north a week ago last Friday, and has given concerts in Boston, Salem, Lynn, Maldon and other New England cities with marked success. It played to a large Lowell audience in the Auditorium last year.

Funds are urgently needed in this territory for the successful carrying on of the local Red Cross branch's activities during the coming year. Fifty per cent of all money received from the sale of memberships is retained by the Lowell organization for humane work in this city.

START RED CROSS DRIVE

Vigorous Campaign Started

by Local Membership

Committee This Morning

Lowell's Red Cross committee this morning started a vigorous three-day campaign for dollar memberships in the American Red Cross, volunteers, collectors planning to make every effort to insure the success of the canvas.

Citizens are reminded once more that membership stations have been established at the Appleton bank, Union bank, the Bon Marche store, the Centralville sub-postoffice and the store of Charles Breen at Westford and Stevens street.

At each station there is an official Red Cross representative to accept the dollar memberships and enclose the names of donors of funds for the humanitarian cause of world relief. The campaign will continue in Lowell tomorrow and Saturday, the 21st and Sunday, ending Saturday night.

Funds are urgently needed in this territory for the successful carrying on of the local Red Cross branch's activities during the coming year. Fifty per cent of all money received from the sale of memberships is retained by the Lowell organization for humane work in this city.

That an actual building shortage of more than $4,000,000 exists today in 350 cities of over 10,000 population in the United States, is shown by a national housing survey, just completed.

The total shortage is greatest in the eastern section of the United States, and in the long list of cities in Massachusetts that show very serious building shortages, appears Lowell, which, under the survey just completed, is the second largest in the state.

The survey was undertaken through the concern's educational department, because of the uncertainty now felt as to the extent of the building shortage throughout the country. The investigation was started in 674 cities, and through the cooperation of the chamber of commerce, but where records were not quickly obtained, the local real estate boards or the building departments of the city governments were consulted. The reports were made between the period of June 1 and October 1, 1924.

The lists of cities furnished by the Strauss company show both the building shortage and "no shortage" municipalities, specified all through the report.

Reports of "no shortage" is taken to mean that building conditions in the city as reported are normal, and that future building requirements are such only as will be made necessary through normal growth and improvement.

The 350 cities reporting shortages which will take an expenditure of $4,050,820,000 to restore normal conditions, include Lowell.

The tabulation of reports of building conditions in American cities of 10,000 or more population, where various large amounts of money are needed to meet housing and other modern building requirements of all types, includes in the state of Massachusetts the following cities, besides Lowell:

Attleboro, Haverhill, Chicopee, Everett, Fall River, Gardner, Greenfield, Lynn, Marlboro, Melrose, Milford, Natick, New Bedford, Newburyport, Newton, North Adams, Peabody, Pittsfield, Springfield, Waltham, Woburn, Cambridge.

The "no shortage" cities are as follows:

Haverhill, Pittsfield, Somerville, Worcester, Boston, Braintree, Brockton and Easthampton.

Haverhill's excellent housing conditions today have been no secret. Building operations have been continuing with great regularity from year to year, and now labor troubles and apparently much more, are always ready for investors to place in building campaigns. The survey conducted in Haverhill was very comprehensive, and the city is placed on the satisfactory list in the Strauss report.

While the city of Lawrence is not mentioned in the list of cities studied by the national housing survey, Fall River and New Bedford were among the textile cities including Lowell, that came under the survey.

New Bedford shows a tremendous building shortage, apparently, with an estimate of $4,500,000 needed to meet building requirements of all types.

Fall River is far better off than either Lowell or New Bedford, the estimate covering the former city's needs in new housing campaigns, being only $600,000.

Brockton's "no shortage" is laid to the doors of the broken shoe manufacturing industry, that today is but a skeleton of former great civic prosperity and happy homes.

The movement away from "The Shoe City" because of labor troubles, among other annoying problems, involving high costs in all branches of shoe manufacturing and the purchase of the leather transportation costs, etc., has left many vacant homes in the Brockton territory, where building operations today are no longer flourishing.

PROPOSED RAID ON TREASURY

Here is something that involves fresh discrimination against New England in the matter of waterway improvements by the federal government at enormous cost.

The short session of congress next month will have to consider two bills of the "pork barrel" kind, providing for many hundreds of waterway improvements under the direction of the federal government and to be completed within a period of five years.

The bills are sponsored by the Mississippi Waterway association and provide for the completion of all the river and harbor improvements thus far approved by the engineers of the war department and adopted by congress. They are widely distributed throughout the country; but, principally in the south and the west, very few of importance being in New England.

There are scores of these proposed improvements on rivers and creeks that have never been heard of outside their immediate district. It is claimed by the proponents of these bills that if enacted, the legislation will forever remove the uncertainty of completing the country's inland waterway development work, and place upon a firm footing the supplementary water transportation made necessary by recent industrial growth and development.

One of the bills provides for an appropriation of $200,000,000 to be taken out of the current revenues of the government to be used in completing all the projects in question. The other bill has the same purpose and involves the same projects, but provides for a bond issue in the same sum, the bonds to be sold by the government, to be redeemable after ten years from the date of their issue and payable within a period of thirty years.

To a district such as that of the Merrimack Valley, it must be somewhat aggravating to read over the vast list of unimportant rivers and creeks that are to receive attention by the government, while others such as the Merrimack river, one of the most important in the United States, is rejected. It seems that either the claims of the Merrimack river have not been presented with sufficient emphasis or else there has been deliberate discrimination against New England. The Atlantic Deep Waterways association at its convention at Newark, N. J., last September included the Merrimack river in the list of inland waterways that should be developed by the federal government through an arrangement with the government of the state. But the Merrimack is not considered in this great blanket bill for the improvement of such "important" waterways as Alligator Creek, South Carolina; Deep River, Cowlitz river, Muddsue, North Carolina; Bear Creek, Kentucky; Big Muddy river, Illinois, and hundreds of others equally unimportant as compared with the Merrimack. Wisconsin, Oregon, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Alaska, Oklahoma and other southern states are to score heavily on this attempted raid upon the treasury through one of the biggest pork barrel propositions ever put before congress. Moreover, the probability is that the sum mentioned would be insufficient to complete the numerous projects undertaken and that another demand for perhaps an equal amount would be made later in order to complete the work just started.

Everybody will admit that the federal government should provide against the frequent flood calamities in the Mississippi valley, but it appears that in order to put across the legislation asked for on this particular river, the Mississippi Improvement Association has planned to gather in practically all the improvements that have been lobbied to the front and to call for their completion within five years. The New England delegation should oppose this movement unless the Merrimack and some other much needed improvements be included. Should this legislation be adopted, it will be much more difficult thereafter, to secure consideration of the Merrimack, which must be made navigable eventually if the industries of the Merrimack Valley are to be given an opportunity to escape the burdensome freight rates that threaten their extinction. Lower freight rates alone would enable New England to defy the world in competition. A navigable river alone will offer the competition necessary to bring down the rates.

SPAIN DISTURBER

In Spain, a revolution is threatened as a result of the failure of the army to suppress the Moors. As usual in such cases, the commanding general is blamed for failure, when as a matter of fact, he simply retired before the onslaught of the enemy in order to save his forces from annihilation. But the critics at home will accept no excuse for failure. They expect their generals to conquer without provoking the forces or the equipment necessary to make victory possible. Moreover, the only way in which Spain can conquer the Moors is by slaughtering a vast number of them which Spain cannot do and which is not desirable, if she could.

The time has probably arrived when Spain cannot control the Moors and when the Moors believe they can go along much better without Spanish rule. Whether they can or not, they are anxious to cast off the Spanish yoke and become their own masters, a quite natural aspiration.

WOMEN'S CONVENTION

The convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs brought to Lowell a highly respectable and representative body of women. It is hoped they have been favorably impressed with our city, our Memorial Auditorium and our great textile factories. The convention could not be accommodated but for our splendid Auditorium, which is the delight of all visitors. It is hoped that this convention will be but the first of a series of such conventions for which the Auditorium furnishes such ample accommodation, not only for general assemblies but banquets and committee work.

CARDINAL LOGUE

For forty-five years, the late Cardinal Logue was a prominent figure in Irish affairs, always striving for peace, harmony and good will. In the stirring events of recent years his counsel was rejected, but he always pleaded for the rights of Ireland and her people. He did not approve the idea of drawing a sectional line in Ireland. He felt that all the people should be united in working for the best interests of Ireland under a central government and in this he voiced the conviction of the Irish people.

"CRUSOE"

"Robinson Crusoe" continues as the world's best seller with the exception of the Bible, though it was first published 205 years ago. "Robinson Crusoe" is printed in 33 languages. Its tremendous popularity is sometimes explained by pointing out that it is, in effect, a history of civilization. Its strongest appeal, strangely enough, is to people who would like to get away from civilization.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS

We cannot see why any government department should issue an annual report to be released for the newspapers on Sunday? It is Secretary Wilbur of the navy who gives his report to the world on Sunday, an innovation that will deprive it of publicity in a great many of the daily papers. It appears that the secretary is more interested in the Sunday papers than the dailies. That attitude is consistent with his judgment on some other matters.

MERTENTHALER

A memorial tablet to Ottmar Mertenthaler is placed on the house where he was born, in a German village. His name doesn't mean much to a reader, but he invented the linotype machine which took the place of typesetting by hand and made large newspapers possible. The invention is most ingenious and proved a great step forward in the art of printing. Mertenthaler deserves a monument.

SYNTHETIC GOLD

From tests made in Germany, it is found that the claims of some scientists relative to the transmutation of quicksilver to gold, remain to be proved and are thus far discredited. If such a change were practicable or found to be possible, the Germans would soon try to gather up all the quicksilver available for the manufacture of gold. The theory is plausible but not thus far proved possible.

It would seem that mob rule should not be allowed to assert itself at any point in California, yet at Los Angeles, the city water supply is loosed by raiders who stand their ground and defy the legal authorities. Force is necessary in such case, but apparently, there is none available.

Eliminating the car stop in Bridge street opposite Paige may help to reduce the congestion around the square. The traffic officer can see the necessity of the change. There are a few others that may come later with equal advantage.

Digging for the body of a man who disappeared fourteen years ago is one of the ways that a murder mystery may be solved. It is said that murder will out and the maxim generally proves true.

The basis of all the confidence games and financial swindles is the desire of a great many people to get something for nothing or to get a great deal for a very little.

Should the American Federation of Labor become a political organization, at that instant it would cease to be a labor organization and would lose its power as such.

The inaccuracies in the count of the majority vote are not surprising; but that envelopes should be found unsealed shows grave laxity.

Makes Head Necklaces

William Stover of Norway, Me., makes bead necklaces in his spare time. He has several in five and seven strands made with small beads in designs, equal at least, to the best Indian work on the market. His latest is one with 15 strands containing 17,000 glass and metallic beads.

Groschener Fence

Fences in Western Texas are being closed in by miles after miles of the fences six inches high. These tiny fences have proved the best defense against the invasion of grasshoppers. The insects are able to jump no higher and are unable to clear the fencing.

Dad Burned It

"Hey, par," said Hank Mayfoot, somewhat tremulously, "lookit, here." "All right, I'm a lookin'." "What did you do with that card of history I sewed and quilt before I went to the county seat?" "Fed the stove with it endurin' of that last blizzard." "Dad burn it?" "That's what I done," said dad cheerfully.

Mind Your Own Business

A woman stopped here the other morning and asked for permission to blow up her tires. When she had put in 110 pounds I said: "Lady, you are blowin' in too much air. You will blow out your tires." "Oh, no, I won't," she replied, "my husband told me to put in 60 pounds a week, and we are going away for three weeks."—Latory Digest.

Directions From Expert

Down in a small Southern town a motorist stopped at a shack to seek directions to the next village. A lanky boy ambled to the door. "Boy," asked the tourist, "how far is it to Hickman?" "Wnal," drawled the youth, "I don't rightly know. But I'll call 'ed. Jed's traveled all over, Jed's Jed's got shooz."—American Legion Weekly.

New Library Girl

A young lady was given a position in a public library, and the first applicant for a book sent her on a quest that had not ended when the superintendent happened along. "How about the now girl?" asked that functionary of the clerk at the desk. "Has she had any previous experience?" "I fear not." "Why do you suppose that?" "This patron has asked for 'Arabian Nights' and she is still looking among the K's."

More Needed

A minister's little daughter was attending her first church service, at which her father was seated in his entrance, she was greatly surprised and cried out in joyful recognition, "Wnal, there's my papa up in that box!" Mother and aunt swooped down upon her, and the little maiden was caressed to keep silent. But the service began and often did she whisper to the wee worshipper, "Mother, the service is goin' to be over soon." "Mother, the service is goin' to be over soon." "Mother, the service is goin' to be over soon." "Mother, the service is goin' to be over soon." "Mother, the service is goin' to be over soon."

Vicar Stopped Him

The local all-round sportsman met the vicar who was returning home with the fishing tackle. Stepping, they talked for a moment, and then the sportsman, who prided himself on being a great angler, and often said so, inquired: "Hello, vicar. Any luck?" "Yes," replied the vicar, clutching his basket, "I have a trout in here—a pound and a half—that I pulled out from the lower brook." "Oh, that's nothing," bragged the other, swelling out his chest. "I've caught dozens of fish of two pounds and over in that stream." "Ah, but you have the advantage of me," complained the vicar. "Advantage? Advantage," exclaimed the shifty one. "Same brook, and you have better gear." "I know, that," retorted the reverend gentleman. "But you just remember that I am a parson, and you're not."

NEW SCHEDULE AT THE COMMODORE

Tonight at the Commodore Ballroom "Mal" Hallett and his orchestra will play for dancing from 8:30 until 12. All the latest and popular musical numbers will be featured. Including new hits from New York.

Manager Roane will try out a new policy—admission 40 cents with dancing free. The floor is in perfect condition and with Hallett's troupe playing wonderful music everything is just right to insure the patrons of a pleasant evening. Come early and enjoy the long program.

Hallett's orchestra will play again on Saturday night, the admission being the same as tonight.

FIRE IN WORCESTER

25 Persons Endangered by Fire Believed Caused by Pyromaniac

WORCESTER, Nov. 20.—Twenty-five persons were endangered early this morning by a fire which, police believe had its origin at the hands of a pyromaniac. Only the proudest discovery of the flames as they raced through the rear end of the three decked on Washington street and communicated to the adjoining houses saved the six families from serious danger.

The theory that the fire was of incendiary origin was advanced by the police after an investigation had revealed that it started in a temporary shed and spread with such rapidity that the adjoining house was menaced before the firemen could begin their fight against the flames. The damage was $2500.

The police disclosed evidence of attempts to fire several other buildings in the vicinity within the past few days.

Determined investigation to discover the identity of the person or persons believed responsible for the fires will be started today.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The Broadway Social and Athletic association never conducted a better event than the 11th annual banquet last Tuesday night. An array of well-known speaking and entertainment talent added to the enthusiasm of the occasion, but the biggest hit of all came when Humphrey Sullivan, an honorary member of the association, came forward with the generous offer to donate a large sum of money as the first step in a proposed building expansion program. Following the gift, President Walsh intimated that a drive for funds will be conducted throughout the city in the near future in the hope that the necessary amount may be raised to allow the club to extend its various activities.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Stock prices resumed their upward movement at the opening of today's stock market despite a continuation of profit-taking in some of the popular industrials and railroads. Trading was again in large volume. Initial gains of a point or more were recorded by Misgabri, Phillips preferred, Marland Oil, Frueke, Bayard Brothers and General Electric, while Kansas City Southern, Chicago, Rock Island and Frueke Morse broke through their previous high levels for the year.

United States Steel, Republic Steel, Radio, Martin Marietta Chemical and Texas & Pacific, but the losses were soon recovered when brisk demand developed for the low-priced rails, carrying the general list to higher ground. More than a score issues attained new peak prices for the year in the first half hour. Norfolk & Southern standing out with a gain of 4½ points. Kansas City Southern advanced 2 points and advances of a point or more took place in Union Bag & Paper, International Harvester, Rock Island, People's Gas, Philadelphia, Reading Coal and Iron, American Tobacco, Great Northern, preferred and several others. Foreign exchanges opened steady with trading quiet, including of the eastern railroads and the oilers on an extended scale in the early afternoon. The market then moved to 304, a new top for the year. Some of the southwestern railroad shares were lower on profit-taking but Union Pacific went to a new high at 149½. Specialties like Otis Elevator, Postum Cereal and International Harvester, were strong while Davison Chemical and Radio corporation were under considerable pressure.

LOWELL'S COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN

Lowell's community chest campaign is gradually broadening out. Today, the campaigners, led by the active American City Bureau official representative, D. H. McFarland, are spreading the new slogan, "Lowell Cares," to every corner of the city.

The campaign slogan was decided upon at a meeting held early last evening at the rooms of the chamber of commerce, when Robert W. Thomson presided as temporary chairman. The executive committee members were all present and Frank B. Kenney, John A. Hunnewell and Charles H. Hobson were appointed to bring in an appointment for permanent chairman.

Mr. McFarland reported progress in the campaign and urged that the executive committee hold another meeting next Monday noon, at the same place. Luncheon will be served at that time.

Campaign buttons containing the new community chest collection campaign slogan: "Lowell Cares," are to be obtained and widely distributed without delay.

Daily luncheon meetings are scheduled to come soon, with workers rallying in Liberty Hall, possibly about 8:30 each week-day night.

ERADICATION OF NARCOTIC EVIL

Canada and China Throw Their Support to the American Proposals

Dr. Beland of Canada Praises American Laws at Opium Congress

GENEVA, Nov. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Canada and China threw their support to the American proposals for the control and ultimate eradication of the narcotic evil when the international opium conference resumed its sessions today. Dr. Henry S. Beland, speaking for Canada, pointed out that the United States had enacted laws the enforcement of which would be sufficient to eradicate the opium evil if clandestine and organized smuggling did not flood the whole land with heroin, morphine and cocaine.

Dr. Beland insisted that the remedy against the invading plague lay in the hands of the conference and he appealed to all the nations to free humanity from these hideous monsters. After size, Chinese minister to the United States, said that the speech delivered yesterday by Bishop Charles H. Brent of the American delegation, explaining the American proposals, had brought the first ray of sunlight he had seen in Geneva for the past fortnight. This was an allusion to the failure of the preceding conference that which dealt with the Far Eastern Opium problem.

On behalf of China, Mr. See thanked Bishop Brent for recommending that nations deriving profit from the sale of the opium to smoking addicts should expand its revenue for the unfortunate from whom the profits were obtained, remarking he had fought for this principle at the first conference.

OPEN LONGEST AUTO BRIDGE IN WORLD

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 20.—Governors of seventeen states and their wives, who arrived last night, assumed a round of entertainment today which ended with the formal opening of Gandy bridge, said to be the longest and stately bridge in the world.

The visitors were guests of honor at a banquet and dance last night at the Tampa Yacht and Country club.

The governors and their wives will spend tonight at St. Petersburg, leaving early tomorrow by motor for Se attle, the next stop in their tour.

day after concluding their annual conference.

CHAMBERLAIN GOING TO LEAGUE MEETING

LONDON, Nov. 20 (By the Associated Press).—Foreign Minister Austen Chamberlain announced today that he would attend the League of Nations' council meeting at Rome December 5, as head of the British delegation.

This announcement is taken as an indication that the conservative government's policy will be one of co-operation and support for the league. It contradicts the idea that the recent British request for the postponement of the armament protocol discussion at Rome was in any way connected with the possibility of non-support on the part of Great Britain for the protocol.

SCHOLARLY WANDERER IS IDENTIFIED

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The scholarly wanderer picked up in Woking recently unable to give his name and only a hazy account of his past life, has been identified, according to this morning's newspapers, as Walter William Harris of New York, an accountant connected with various colleges in the United States and Canada and the Y.M.C.A. in New York. He is the possessor of an English university degree.

Mr. Harris now is in the hospital at Guilford.

$200,000 LOSS BY FIRE AT BUFFALO, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The plant of the Master Wallboard company at the foot of Philadelphia avenue, was destroyed by fire today. The loss, including the building, a one and one-half story structure, and a quantity of manufactured wallboard, was estimated at $200,000.

SHORTAGE IN WELL-TRAINED MINISTERS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—Shortage in adequately trained ministerial leadership is one of the most serious problems facing Protestantism, the Rev. Dr. D. D. Forsyth, corresponding secretary of the board of home missions and church extension of the Methodist Episcopal church, declared in his report prepared for submission today to the annual meeting of the board.

"Quoting from a statement by the commission on religious and social service, Dr. Forsyth said that of the 40,000 Protestant churches in the state, 38 per cent had full time resident ministers; 15 per cent resident ministers giving only part time services; 64 per cent, absentee pastors, and that 13 per cent were without pastors.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

Annual Seal Selling Campaign by the Lowell Tuberculosis Council

LOWELL, Nov. 20.—The Lowell Tuberculosis council's annual Christmas seal selling campaign for the benefit of the organization fund employed is one of Nature's worst scourges afflicting human lives of young and old, will officially start in city and suburbs on Tuesday, Dec. 2, and continue until the close of the holiday season of the passing year.

The council is advertising widely by

CHRISTMAS SEAL

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE CHARGED

Geo. W. Plummer, Jr., and Mrs. Marion Risteen Held Without Bail

Charged With Killing of Woman's Husband, Fred R. Risteen

SALEM, Nov. 20.—George W. Plummer, Jr., and Mrs. Marion Risteen, both of Beverly, charged with murder in the first degree in the killing of the latter's husband, Fred R. Risteen, were held without bail for the grand jury this afternoon following a hearing in the local district court.

Their case will come up at the January term of superior court here, it is believed. Risteen's body was found in Norwood's pond at North Beverly, Oct. 4, by two boys who were out fishing. The body was trussed up with rope and wire and heavily weighted with parts of discarded automobiles. In a statement to the police after his arrest, Plummer said Risteen died after a fight which had kept the pond. The police claim he admitted putting the body into the pond, but Plummer said the victim's wife had no part in his death. Plummer was a boarder at the Risteen home.

$475,000 PURSE FOR WILLS-DEMPSEY FIGHT

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 20.—An offer of a purse of $475,000 for a heavyweight championship fight between Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills on July 2 next was telegraphed today to Jack Kearns, the title holder's manager, by George E. Doolan, real estate operator, acting for a White Plains syndicate.

Doolan advised Kearns, who is in position, that the syndicate was prepared to build an arena seating 100,000, to attract all well-wishers of the campaign to combat tuberculosis in all its phases.

The Christmas Seal sale committee is directed by Bertha Murphy Abbott, who is city chairman, and Julia West Stevens, town chairman. The directors of the Lowell Tuberculosis council, which includes representatives from Middlesex, Woburn, Lowell, and Lowell chamber of commerce, Lowell Guild and Lowell Social Service League are as follows: President, C. H. Hobson; secretary, Julia West Stevens; Mrs. Bertha M. Abbott, Mrs. R. E. Corley; Mrs. C. E. French, Mrs. Otto Heckmeyer, Miss Helen Lumberg, Mrs. William L. Robertson, Ralph E. Runels, Henry A. Smith and Mrs. J. K. Whittier.

The new Christmas seals to be distributed in the coming sales campaign under the direction of Lowell Tuberculosis council, are very attractive. They show a female figure holding a shining torch and displaying a shield upon which is emblazoned the familiar insignia with the two red cross lines.

Members of the seal-selling campaign committee stated this morning that stamps somewhat similar in appearance, but not the genuine tuberculosis Christmas seals, are now being sold extensively on the streets of the city by children. Notice was given to the public this morning that the genuine Christmas seals contain the inscription "Health—Christmas—1924" and that the other stamps are not being sold to help the cause supported by the Lowell Tuberculosis council.

The council stamps are sold for a penny apiece and patrons of the charitable cause may buy as many stamps as they desire to, in block-chests at a time, if they desire. The money obtained from the sale of the Christmas seals is the local committee's only source of income.

TWO BELIEVED TO HAVE PERISHED IN FIRE

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Nov. 20.—Trapped by fire which early today destroyed six buildings in the business section of Plymouth, Pa., near here, Mrs. Martha Sherko and her niece, Evelyn Petroski, 11 years old, are believed to have perished. One man, said to have been seriously burned, is in the Mercy hospital, this city.

Five business blocks, all of frame construction, shared like match wood as the flames, believed to have originated in the Sherko hotel, gained headway. Four lodgers in the hotel, at first thought to have been caught, were later said to have been accounted for, unsighted estimates placing the loss in excess of $100,000.

PASSENGER TRAIN DERAILED—NONE HURT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 20.—A passenger train on the Athol branch of the Boston & Albany railroad, leaving this city at 5:10 a. m. today for Athol, was derailed at Indian Orchard, the engine and two of the three cars leaving the tracks and toppling over on their sides. Practically no one was injured, although all of the 25 or more passengers were in the third or rearmost car, only one truck of which left the rails. The passengers were mainly young women on their way to work at Indian Orchard.

The cause of the wreck has not been determined but railroad detectives and the police are conducting an investigation.

BYE-ELECTIONS TO DAIL EIREANN

DUBLIN, Nov. 20.—Bye-elections to the Dail Eireann in South Dublin City and North Mayo have resulted in the return of republicans by substantial, although not overwhelming majorities. This is regarded in some quarters as a serious setback to the government, but the results were apparently largely due to the apathy of the electors, fewer than 50 per cent. in Dublin voting.

PLANS FOR FUNERAL OF MRS. MORGAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Funeral arrangements for Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, widow of the great banker and mother of the present head of the Morgan banking house, are being held in abeyance, pending the arrival of Mr. Morgan on the Berengaria tomorrow night.

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION

Committee on Resolutions to Submit Recommendations at Today's Session

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 20 (By the Associated Press).—A partial report from the committee on resolutions, embodying recommendations on several minor issues, was ready for the fourth business session of the American Federation of Labor convention today.

For the most part the convention marked time yesterday, awaiting committee action on the more than 70 resolutions introduced the first three days.

It was not expected recommendations on any major question would be ready for today's assembly, those touching such problems as political policy, American foreign relations, women in industry and education, together with several involving differences between important groups within the ranks of organized labor, probably requiring several days for hearings.

In emphasizing the "Don'ts" for this year's driving to the game, Mr. Goodwin says:

1. Be sure your brakes and lights are in good order.

2. Allow plenty of time for early start.

3. Don't cut in or pass others on a curve or on a top of a hill.

4. Maintain a reasonable average speed.

BULLET WOUND
IN SMUTS' CHESTLAST OF FAMOUS
VILLA FAMILY

Cousin of Gen. Jan Smuts, South African War Hero, in Boston Hospital

Police Probe Circumstances of Shooting Which Smuts Maintains Was Accidental

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Captain John A. Smuts, cousin of General Jan Smuts, South African war hero, was reported as resting comfortably today at the city hospital, where he was taken last night with a bullet wound in his chest. In the meantime police were investigating the circumstances of the shooting, which Captain Smuts said was accidental. A note found at the South End, living house where Smuts and his wife, formerly May Yohé, an actress, had resided for two weeks, indicated that he had planned to commit suicide.

Last night Mrs. Smuts summoned a physician and Captain Smuts was taken to the hospital. It was learned later that the shooting occurred early yesterday afternoon. Captain Smuts said he was sitting on a bed cleaning a small calibre revolver when it was discharged accidentally. In search of the gun the police found a note which said:

"I intend to shoot myself because I have been unkind to my wife." The note was signed "J. A. Smuts," but the police said the note and signature were different in handwriting. When questioned at the hospital Captain Smuts warned the authorities not to make trouble for his wife, and said:

"It makes no difference who shot me. If you make trouble for my wife I will maintain that I shot myself no matter what you say. I'm a game fellow. I can stand this. I love my wife."

Captain and Mrs. Smuts came to Boston when on the train which they conducted at Keeler, N. J., two weeks ago. Mrs. Smuts, now May Yohé, was formerly the wife of Louis Francis Hope, and later was married to Captain Putnam Bradley Strong, son of a former mayor of New York. She was married to Captain Smuts in London in 1913.

LAWRENCE WILL BUILD AUDITORIUM

Lawrence municipal authorities and Lawrence chamber of commerce members are co-operating closely in the city's latest new building construction campaign, which calls for the erection of a large public auditorium by the down-river municipality in the near future.

President Robert D. Farquhar and Secretary J. J. McKenna, representing Lawrence chamber of commerce, paid a visit to Lowell and called at the local chamber, seeking a guide who would lead them in an exploration of the wonders of Lowell Memorial Auditorium. The visitors were promptly accommodated. The Lawrence chamber executives spent several hours in their tour of the building, from main auditorium and ante rooms to the veterans' quarters. They were greatly impressed by the magnificence of the building.

President Farquhar intimated, during his visit to local chamber headquarters, that Lawrence has no auditorium building in mind, conforming in many details of construction and design to Lowell's memorial magnificent pile.

MINOR CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Arthur E. Joyal of Austin street, was arraigned in district court today as result of a liquor raid on a near-beer saloon in Salem street by Officers Aldrich, Kiltie and Keegan, last night. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until November 29.

McNeil McDermott was allowed to stand nolo in a non-support case. He was placed on straight probation with an order to pay $5 weekly towards the support of his minor children.

Emmett Alexa, assault and battery, was continued to November 28.

Joseph Wotos, unlawful possession of a revolver, was continued to November 28.

THANKED JUDGE FOR SENTENCE

Although sentenced to the house of correction for a term of two months when he was found guilty of drunkenness, William H. Reagan extended his thanks to Judge Enright in district court this morning. The court informed the defendant that he had the alternative of sending him to the state farm, which would mean four months' service, or to the house of correction for the shorter term.

"I'm going to give you an opportunity to straighten yourself out in two months in the house of correction instead of sending you to the state farm," Judge Enright told him.

"Thanks, Your Honor," said the defendant as he sat down.

Installation of Officers By Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus

With brilliant ceremony the officers of Bishop Delaney assembly, fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, were installed, in Memorial hall last night. Those taking the reins of office are:

John V. Donoghue, faithful navigator;

Arthur J. O'Neill, faithful admiral;

Christopher J. McSorley, faithful captain;

Daniel A. Powers, faithful controller;

John C. McQuaid, faithful pilot;

Michael J. Quinn, faithful purser;

Patrick J. Nevin, faithful scribe;

John J. Owens, faithful outside guard;

Rev. James F. Lynch, faithful friar.

The installing officers were Louis Wrenon, master of the fourth degree of Massachusetts, assisted by John S. Quinn, state warden of the K. of C., as grand marshal, and M. Francis Kieran, Edward Casey and Albert B. Quinn as assistants.

The city did not seek the use of force in ejecting them, however, but instead applied to courts for writs of eviction.

Despite the lack of armed aggressiveness on either side, the situation was described by observers as needing but little more to precipitate that section of California into civil warfare.

Gov. C. Richardson, withdrawn, repeated appeals for state soldiers to dislodge the insurgents. Jose Deacon, district attorney of Inyo County, was in Sacramento today to urge the governor again to send troops to prevent bloodshed when the ranchers decided to withdraw.

The affair was the most elaborate and impressive in the history of the local fourth degree. Sir Knight Walloull was the organist and capably directed the musical program in connection with the event. Congratulations to the installing officers were given on all sides.

At the conclusion of the installation ceremony, Faithful Navigator John V. Donoghue addressed a note of welcome to the large gathering and introduced as speakers, Louis Watson, John S. Quinn, Mayor Donovan, Rev. James F. Lynch, Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan and Charles J. Laddors, grand knight of Lowell council, No. 42.

Entertaining numbers were given by John T. Baxter, Patrick J. Nevin and Charles J. Burns.

Rev. Fr. Lynch spoke of the beautiful setting in which the ceremony was held, amid scenes depicting epochal events in the history of the country.

He said there were lessons in abundance in the evening's exercises and said it was a most auspicious opening.

Rev. Fr. Heffernan, a member of the assembly, when called upon was interrogated. He drew many valuable lessons from the term "Patriotism" and felt the occasion was a worthy one.

John C. McQuaid, chairman of the social committee, reported progress.

It was announced that the committee in charge of the "get-together" of all the assemblies in Eastern Massachusetts, of which James F. Conway is chairman, will meet in a short time to discuss plans.

Votes of thanks were given Michael J. Quinn and Daniel A. Powers, the financial officers of the organization, for efficient work. Both officers responded gracefully, expressing their appreciation to the members.

Preliminary steps were taken last evening for the holding of the annual dinner of the assembly. A committee was authorized to be named by the chair to take full charge of the event. It is expected that the affair will be held in February.

Chris J. McSorley was chairman of the committee on installation, while Cheif Edward F. Saunders was chairman of the super committee. There was a splendid attendance, many men prominent in Knights of Columbus circles taking an active part in the proceedings.

"Castleton Cut-Off," New York Central's Project
Placed in Service TodayWill Reduce by From Three to Seven Days' Time It Takes to Move Freight

SELKIRK, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The A. Y. Smith Memorial bridge, the Hudson river connecting railroad and the new Selkirk freight yards, the three comprising the New York Central railroad's new $25,000,000 project, the "Castleton cut-off" which will reduce by from three to seven days the time it takes to move a freight car from coast to coast formally will be placed in service today.

Early today a train bearing 28 railroad presidents, men prominent in the political and business life of the nation, engineers, technical experts and newspapermen were prepared to leave Albany on an inspection trip.

Patrick E. Crowley, president of the New York Central, will preside at a luncheon at which United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, William A. Pendleton, chairman of the public service commission, and William A. Hatchett, mayor of Albany, will speak.

The Hudson river connecting railroad links the tracks of the New York Central, Boston & Albany and West Shore railroads. By its use it will be possible to bring westbound freight cars to the Hudson river over the Castleton bridge 135 feet above the water and nearly a mile in length.

Freight will then go into the Selkirk classification yards and thence west through South Schenectady, obviating the necessity of passing through the yards at Albany, long a "bottle neck" and cause of delay in handling freight.

The connecting road consists of 47.4 miles of tracks. The yards contain a trackage with a capacity of 10,750 cars and extend more than six miles west from the Hudson river.

The project represents the fruition of 12 years of planning.

Joseph L. Cronin, Mrs. Mary Hearn and Charles F. Richardson, representing local probation departments, attended the annual conference of probation officers of the state in the American house, Boston, today. Probation policies were the main topics of discussion.

Two re-enlistments in the U. S. navy at the local recruiting stations are reported today by Chief R. R. Frederick, officer in charge. Henry J. Morris, of 11 Smith street, re-enlisted as a fireman, first class, for duty as a U. S. "Memphis," a new seafaring cruiser now on the ways at the Philadelphia navy yard. Walter C. Lange of Manchester is the second re-enlistment. He also signed up for the Memphis.

After Wounding Wife, Her
Father and Her Brother

ATLANTIC, Nov. 20.—The bullet that Joseph Pires of Pawtucket, R. I., fired into his head after wounding his wife, her father and her brother here last night, caused his death at the hospital today. Mrs. Pires, 18 years old, who had fled to the home of her father, Virgin Velice, complaining that her husband had beaten her, was shot twice, but will get well. Her father and brother Manuel, the latter 20 years old, each has two or three wounds, but were said to be recovering also.

The hotel committee is considering a similar trip to Salem, where the Hockenbury System Inc. has promoted a new hotel construction of excellent accommodations and fine appearance.

Chairman E. A. Wilson, Theodore Hazewood, Bennett Silverblatt, Joseph F. Meany, Ralph H. Runels, Geo. C. Fairburn, Secretary Aderton accompanied the committee and acted as guides upon arrival at the new Gardner home of yr merry host.

It is understood that the Lowell visitors will attempt to ascertain in the hostility they are visiting this afternoon, in fulfilling the expectations of the citizens' investors. The tourists will endeavor to put what prospects the modern hotel will have in the immediate future and also something about the system of managing and operating a large hotel in a city of comparatively small size and not thickly populated outside area.

Investigation Shifts to Paris,
Ohio—Relatives of Cremated Woman Questioned

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 20.—In a determined effort to please together all the loose threads in the domestic life of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, wife of the Rev. R. V. Sheatsley, pastor of one of the leading churches of the fashionable Bexley suburb, who was cremated, body was found in the furnace of the Sheatsley home Monday evening, so that it might be ascertained whether the mystery of her death is finally to be established as suicide or murder. County Prosecutor John R. King carried his investigation today into the circle of the dead woman's blood relatives.

Accompanied by City Detective Harry Carson, Mr. King left for Paris, home of Mrs. Sheatsley's mother, near Canton, early this morning to go over with the aged mother the life history of the daughter from infancy, down through the intervening years to her marriage with Sheatsley and the domestic relations in the Sheatsley home up to the time of the daughter's tragic death. The aged mother made her home with her daughter for several years up until about a year ago.

By getting the life history of Mrs. Sheatsley, Prosecutor King hopes to be able to strengthen or completely disprove the theory advanced by many and clung to by County Coroner Murphy, that Mrs. Sheatsley climbed into the furnace and deliberately destroyed herself.

While at Paris, Mr. King also expects to question brothers of the dead woman to ascertain what light they may throw on her life.

Counsel for Corbett Protests Mayoralty Vote in Three Precincts—Braden's Lead Reduced to 85 Votes—Recount is Still On Project of the mayoralty vote in three precincts of the city has been entered with the election commission by Attorney Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan, representing Thomas J. Corbett, who was defeated for nomination this morning and disclosed only minor changes, Mr. Corbett making a net gain of one vote, cutting Mr. Braden's lead to 85 votes.

Attorney O'Sullivan's first protest was entered yesterday afternoon when the ballot box of ward 1, precinct 2 was brought into the recount room with the seal broken.

This morning a protest was entered against the mayoralty vote in ward 7, precinct 1, when it was found that there was no seal on the bottom of the box, although there was a small seal on the side.

The third protest was brought about when George Pearson, in charge of the ballot, reported to Chairman Hugh C. McSweeney of the election commission, that the seal on the ballot box of precinct 5 of ward 9 is broken.

The vote in precinct 4 of ward 7 was further protested when it was discovered there was no mayoralty tally and according to Mr. Corbett's representatives, no method of checking the recounts figures.

No action on the many protests had been taken by the election commission at noon today and it is doubtful if any will be forthcoming until the recount is completed some time tomorrow.

Chairman Hugh C. McSweeney of the commission said, however, to a Sun reporter, that in his opinion the broken seals were caused by the ballot boxes being handled roughly. To what extent the protests might be carried, Mr. McSweeney did not care to say. Mr. Corbett's representatives were also loath to say to what extent the protests might be carried, expressing a preference to wait until the recount is completed before making any statements on the subject.

Precinct 4 of ward 7, and precincts 1 and 2 of ward 8 were recounted this morning and disclosed only minor changes, Mr. Corbett making a net gain of one vote, cutting Mr. Braden's lead to 85 votes.

Before the recount of the first mentioned precinct had been started this morning, it was discovered that the seal was not on the bottom of the box, as is usual, and Atty. O'Sullivan entered his protest. Further investigation disclosed a seal on another section of the box but the protest was not withdrawn.

The excitement among the 50 or more persons present had no sooner died down over this protest than Mr. Pearson made it known to the chairman of the board that the seal on the ballot box of ward 9 precinct was also broken. This caused another protest, although the official protest will not be entered until the box is brought into the council chamber, where the recount is underway, and delivered to the chairman for inspection.

The second major change in the standing of Messrs. Braden and Corbett came yesterday when it was discovered that 30 votes had been erased from the former in ward 7, precinct 4, belonged to Mr. Brown. This change, and a few other minor changes, in yesterday afternoon's recount of Mr. Braden's lead, which was 101 votes when the recount started and which had gone to 120 as a result of the first day's recount, to 86 votes. Mr. Corbett's net gain of one vote this morning cut the lead again to 85 votes.

With the recount of the second precinct of ward 8 completed at 12 o'clock this afternoon, the session was adjourned for lunch.

BRITAIN TO DEMAND PROBE AND ARREST OF ASSAILANTS OF STACK

Representations to Egyptian Government as Result of Attempt to Assassinate Sir Lee Stack, Sirdar of the Egyptian Army, in Cairo Yesterday

LONDON, Nov. 20 (By the Associated Press)—Immediate action will be demanded by the British government in representations to the Egyptian government as a result of the attempt on the life of Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army, in Cairo yesterday. It was indicated in official quarters to-day.

Several of the cabinet ministers were at No. 10 Downing street during the forenoon and their conferences with the premier are expected to lead to the despatch of a sharp note to Cairo. This note will probably demand immediate investigation of the affair and the arrest of the assailants and may touch upon the subject of stopping the circulation of anti-British propaganda in Egypt.

Five Persons Perish in Fire

Seven Frame Buildings in Business Section of Plymouth, Pa., Destroyed

Bodies of Victims Found on First Floor, Where They Were Trying to Escape

PLYMOUTH, Pa., Nov. 20.—Five lives were lost in a fire which destroyed seven frame buildings in the business section today. The dead are Mrs. Mary Sherako, her niece, Emily Petroski, 11 years old, and three unidentified boarders in the Sherako home. Another boarder, Edward Aleston, was taken to a hospital at Wilkes-Barre in a serious condition.

The fire, which was of undetermined origin, started in the basement of the Sherako boarding house, police said.

The flames fed by the wooden frame construction of the building, gained rapid headway and soon spread to six other places. These included a grocery store, a tailor shop, meat market, furniture store and cigar store, and poolroom.

A number of boarders were carried from the burning boarding house by Deputy Sheriff Hessey.

The bodies of Mrs. Sherako and her niece and the three boarders were found on the first floor, where they were evidently attempting to escape from the flames when they met death. The loss was estimated at more than $75,000.

In Serious Condition

CAIRO, Nov. 20. (By the Associated Press)—The condition of Major General Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army who was wounded by assassins yesterday, passed a poor night and there was some improvement noted, but his condition this morning was still very serious.

CAIRO, Nov. 20. (By the Associated Press)—The condition of Major General Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army who was wounded yesterday by assassins, was reported this evening

Fire Takes Quarter of Million Dollar Toll in Merrimack Street Business District

DRAFT CITIZENS FROM STREET TO COMPLETE JURY PANEL HERE

Deputy Sheriffs Sent Out By Judge Greenhalge When Regular Panel is Exhausted in Tort Actions Against Eastern Mass. Street Railway Co.

Men were drafted off the street for jury duty in the superior civil court here today when the panel was exhausted in an attempt to secure 12 men to hear five actions of tort brought against the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.

Challenged from counsel reduced that only 11 jurors were secured to sit on the case and the court ordered sheriffs to go outside and secure another man. Deputy Sheriffs Gately and Larochelle took up their single positions just outside the court room building in Gorham street and in a few minutes had obtained six men, who were marched into the court room. The third man of the six called was Martin E. Duffy, insurance salesman, who was acceptable and the jury was complete. They were at once sent out on a view and excused until 2 p.m.

The five actions of tort that will be tried together are brought by John B. Carter, William A. Chandler, Peter Lacy, Louis Smith and J. K. Chandler & Sons, all of Tewksbury, who sue in the total amount of $25,000 to recover for injuries sustained when the company's truck in which they were riding in 29th street on Oct. 12, was in collision with an electric car.

James H. Vahy of Boston and William H. Wilson of this city appear for the plaintiffs, with Trull, Wier & O'Donoghue for the railway company.

Firemen Keep Blaze Confined to Small Area When Confabulation Threatens

Fire at 2 a.m. today in the heart of the city's retail business district swept through upper floors of three buildings in Merrimack street occupied by G. C. Prince & Son, Inc., booksellers and stationers; Thomas Wardell, violins and pianos, Prince-Cotter Co., jewelers, and S. S. Kresge Co., varieties, destroyed thousands of dollars worth of stock and caused property damage to the extent of about $75,000.

The merchandise loss, while difficult to figure, will reach $150,000, it is estimated. Heavy fire losses were sustained by the G. C. Prince Co. and Thomas Wardell, while Kresge, Prince-Cotter Co., Jewelers, and Fidler's Boston Laces Outfitters, suffered extensively through smoke and water damage to valuable stock. Other merchants along Merrimack street and business houses that back up to the alley between Merrimack and Middle streets also sustained losses when water accumulated in the passageway ran to the depth of a foot and poured into basements.

Confabulation Threatened

For a time the fire threatened to spread beyond control and develop into

LOWELL'S SHARE OF STATE TAX THIS YEAR IS $540,763.28

Check Received by City Treasurer Today—Amount is More Than $40,000 Less Than Last Year—How the Figures Are Arrived At

A check for $540,763.28 was received by the city treasurer today from the state treasurer, the amount representing Lowell's share of the state national bank, corporations, and other state income taxes, after money owed the state by the city had been deducted.

This year's revenue on this account is slightly less than last year's, which was $556,939.08.

Lowell's total share in the state taxes was $789,420.05, but from this amount was deducted $245,667.57, representing money owed the state by the city for highway repairs and other money expended by state departments chargeable to the city.

The proportion of state tax payable to this city is derived from the following sources: income tax, 1924, $214,792.59; corporation tax for public service, $70,600.50; business corporations tax, $374,238.20; national bank tax, $11.61; street railway tax, $315.60; aid for mothers with dependent children, $23,637.29; contagious disease fund, $3; paupers' support, $340; burial of soldiers and sailors, $120; military aid, $269.60; state aid, $8554; surplus war bonus tax, $8537; state bank tax, $120.00.

The money received from the state is anticipated revenue and has already been included in the city's estimated revenue.

In connection with the $55,307 received from the state as this city's proportion of the $2,000,000 which was collected to pay soldiers' bonuses and which remained on hand after all bonus bills were paid, City Treasurer George said today that under the law this money will go into a special fund to be appropriated only for the purpose of paying the city's indebtedness or for purposes for which the city has the right to the money.

It is not within the general laws, he said, to make it compulsory to set this sum aside for any one purpose, although the city council may vote to appropriate it for any work included in the purposes allowed by the law.

Can anything be simpler than taking a conventional little tablet four times each day for a year? It is reduced to normal? Of course not. Just purchase a box of Marion's Prescription Tablets from your druggist for one dollar, and start now to reduce. Follow directions—no starvation dieting or tiresome exercising. Just a substantial food to be taken with you, and you will keep on getting slender. Thousands of men and women each year regain healthy, slender figures by taking Marion's Tablets. Purchase them from your druggist, or send direct to Marion's, C. G. Gonda, Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.—Adv.

FRATERNAL NEWS

The annual roll call of Sam'l H. Hines Lodge, Knights of Pythias, was held Tuesday evening in Castle Hall, Bridge street. The affair opened with a hunting call at 7 o'clock, at which were present 60 members of the lodge. The roll call followed a short business meeting, and as the name of Charles A. Davis was read, a barrel of apples from his farm in New Hampshire was rolled into the room. Lodges in this city and cities and towns within a 25-mile radius were represented, and the grand chancellor was represented by Past Grand Chancellor Harry R. Lawrence of Lawrence. Addresses of the evening were made by Mr. Lawrence and H.G.C. Louis Ellingtonwood, D.D.G.C. Elmer D. Robinson presented the Lodge a Pythian flag which was won at the Boston Ballantine parade, Oct. 13.

A regular meeting of Lowell gdmnd, D.G.W.V. of A., was held Tuesday evening in the Free church with H. Robinson presiding. Routine business was transacted and the reports of several committees read and discussed.

THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

Robert O. Small Addresses
Pupils of the State Normal School

State Supports 205 Vocational Schools With Total Enrollment of 63,910

Robert O. Small of the state department of vocational education, gave an interesting and instructive personal talk before the pupils of the Lowell State Normal school yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Small explained at length the scope of the vocational education bureau which has jurisdiction over the day and evening vocational schools, the part-time schools and the continuation schools. In explaining the work of the department Mr. Small said, in part:

"The first and most important part of our work is to properly educate the teacher that she may understand the work we do. If you would be successful as teachers you must know infinitely more about this department than the majority of people.

"We are an isolated people in our work, but this is necessary to a great degree in order that we may shape our programs. Isolation, however, lessens efficiency. There was one time a conflict between general education and vocational education. Vocational education is but a supplement to general education. Vocational education trains the boy and girl for a position in life. Sometime, preliminary to leaving school, the child should have a training which will fit him to fill a place in the world's work. An argument against this fact is an argument against the fitting of the child to properly carry on a definite work in life."

Mr. Small then gave data relating to the work of the vocational bureau which showed that in 1911 Massachusetts legislated to the effect that when cities or towns established a vocational school which was approved by the state 50 per cent of the cost of maintaining the school would be borne by the state.

"The vocational school, however, is not a part of the public school system in that it is not compulsory," continued the speaker. Although maintained by the public fund, these schools are not like the public schools which must be attended by the pupils.

"In Lowell there are four schools of this nature, the day industrial for boys; evening industrial for men and boys; girls' day school of home-making, and the evening school of practical arts. A fifth school of this kind is found in the continuation system. In addition to these five classes, there are four others, three in the field of agriculture, and one in the field of industry."

An examples of agricultural schools Mr. Small mentioned the Essex County institution, which is an excellent two of agricultural school. He stated that high schools offered departments in which courses in agriculture are given. The best departments in this line are found not in the country schools as is often the impression but in city schools. Roxbury high school offers one of the best courses in agriculture to the state.

In exploitation of the part-time school and the work accomplished by those attending, Mr. Small said:

"Those who attend the part-time school change regularly from the factory where they are employed to the school and learn their trade while they eke out their income. This is the most promising type of education today when the economic stress is so great. Parents sacrifice much that their children may be educated and too often the sacrifice made by parents is not appreciated by youths. The part-time school is fine for those who are forced to leave school at a relatively early age. It gives a valuable training to those who must help support the family."

"The world is suffering more today from the fact that people do not understand the needs of the world than from the fact that children must be kept in school. The world teaches much to the youth."

"In these part-time schools studies as well as trades are on the program. English is taught. We sometimes forget, however, that in the study of English the only fundamental reason for its being studied is to have others understand us when we talk and write, and to understand others when they address us. English is taught everywhere and it must be acquired in the learning of a trade. Arithmetic also is needed, and it is being taught in a practical way, not in the embalmed method which was taught in days gone by."

"The part-time school has a magical effect on the pupil and so ties up education with life work, in a special, pleasing way."

"Together with our vocational guidance work, we have a rehabilitating department and a teachers' training department. In the first-named bureau we train the injured, maimed man to do work which is specially suited to his type. People are hereby given the opportunity to learn of their ability and even though incapacitated for life, they are started on a new career which will carry them through."

"But, to operate these schools we must have teachers, and we are train-

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and diseases, symptoms when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. The iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

Women's Minor Ills come from one cause

Chronic constipation is the plague of their lives; but thousands keep healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi.

WOMEN are so accustomed to finding themselves constipated that they are apt to make matters worse by indifference. Unfortunately many seem to think that it is easier to give the appearance of health with cosmetics, or stifle a headache with an opiate, than to remove the real cause by taking a good laxative.

The pill habit, of course, is not to be recommended, but any woman can take such a mild laxative as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi with assurance that the dose can gradually be decreased and that there will be no shock or weakening of the system.

As is generally known, Syrup Pepsi is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsi and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A spoonful will clean out the impacted matter and make you feel well by morning.

You should take a dose when you feel the slightest symptom of constipation, such as biliousness, flatulence, lassitude, loss of appetite, restlessness, sleep, bad breath, dull eyes, yellow skin, and to stop fevers and colds. Many do not wait for these symptoms, but take Syrup Pepsi regularly once a week.

Mrs. Mary J. White, 122 Cedar Ave., Camden, N. J., and Mrs. L. H. Edwards, Palisade, Colo., say that much of their excellent health can be ascribed to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi. The other members of the family also use it, being free from opium and narcotics, it is perfectly safe, even for infants.

More than ten million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi are sold annually, the largest sale in the world. If you have been in the habit of using strong cathartic pills, salt waters or "candy cathartics," which contain a coal-tar drug called phenolphthalein, we especially urge you to try this milder method. You will have a better, freer passage and without strain or griping. A bottle can be had at any drug store and the average cost is less than a cent a dose.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Send this clip and coupon, pin their name and address on it, and mail it to the Pepsi Syrup Co., 518 Washington Street, Moncello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi will be sent them postpaid by mail. Don't enclose postage. It is free.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN The Family Laxative

ing them for the special courses which we teach in our schools.

The state is supporting 205 vocational schools and has a total of 63,910 enrolled. Last year the state expended $4,132,000 for the maintenance of these schools, this sum being but half the actual total, the other half being paid by the communities in which the schools are located.

In closing Mr. Small urged the teachers to properly fit themselves for their work that they might in turn assist others in choosing their vocation and teach them to follow their vocation in the best, most efficient manner.

This was the last lecture in a series given at the school under the general title, "The Relation of the Department to the Schools in the State." Owing to the holiday season no other series will be begun until after the Christmas recess.

TALKED ON THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Prof. Arthur A. Stewart of the Lowell Textile school was the principal speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of the Highland Congregational church, and gave a very interesting discourse on the textile industry.

The meeting followed supper which was served under the direction of Frank Colby, President A. P. Clark and a short business meeting and introduced Prof. Stewart. In his talk on textiles and the textile industry, Prof. Stewart described the manufacturing of cotton and woolen cloth from the time the raw material enters the mill until it leaves as finished goods, and illustrated his talk with samples of various materials.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY FAIR
OPENS AT Y. W. C. A.

The annual fair of the Y.M.C.A. Woman's auxiliary was opened yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with a large number of patrons in attendance. Booths festively decorated in black and gold streamers and novelties attracted many prospective holiday buyers bent on purchasing gifts and trinkets, of which there was an abundance offered on the many tables.

The feature yesterday was the beautiful chicken supper served at 6 o'clock to over 300 people. During the repeat an entertainment program was given and at the conclusion of the supper "Bachelor Girls," an enjoyable sketch, was given by Misses Ruth Clough, Mary Livingston and Davis Senior.

The fair will continue this evening when the entertainment will be given by the Y. Men's club. The program will consist of an old-timer's trio singing a collection of songs. More in Williams, Donald Dean and Oscar Grahn will participate. Robert Burns will entertain with vocal solos while Charles Ellis will give violin selections. A comedy skit by Harry Burton and Joseph Hollingsworth will be the feature of the evening's program.

Among the many booths and tables which offer attractive articles are the fancy work booth, Christmas cards table, ice cream, cake and candy tables, apron booth, grab table and, many other equally novel arrangements of desirable articles.

The committees in charge of the various tables and booths are as follows:

COMING TO LOWELL

St. Mary's Industrial School band of Baltimore, Md.—50 pieces strong—with several feature soloists, comes to the Memorial Auditorium here next Sunday evening to give an elaborate concert program under the auspices of the Xavierian Brothers of St. Patrick's parish.

The members of the musical outfit range in years from 10 to 16, and occupy the same plane in instrumental music as the Paulist choristers. The band has been in existence fifty years, and is generally recognized as the best in the United States. Under the leadership of Brother Simon, C.F.X., the band

Red Cross representative to accept the dollar memberships and enroll the names of donors of funds for the humanitarian cause of world relief. The campaign will continue in Lowell to-morrow and Saturday, the 1924 canvas ending Saturday night.

Funds are urgently needed in this territory for the successful carrying on of the local Red Cross branch's activities during the coming year. Fifty per cent of all money received from the sale of memberships is retained by the Lowell organization for humane work in this city.

That an actual building shortage of more than $1,000,000,000 exists today in 850 cities of over 10,000 population in the United States, is shown by a national housing survey, just completed.

The total shortage is greatest in the eastern section of the United States, and in the long list of cities in Massachusetts that show very serious building shortages, appears Lowell, which, under the survey just completed by S. W. Strauss & Co., of New York, or more population, where various large amounts of money are needed to meet housing and other modern building requirements of all types, includes in the state of Massachusetts the following cities, besides Lowell:

Attleboro, Beverly, Chicopee, Everett, Fall River, Gardner, Greenfield, Lynn, Marlboro, Melrose, Milford, Natick, New Bedford, Newburyport, North Adams, Peabody, Pittsfield, Springfield, Waltham, Woburn, Cambridge.

The "no shortage" cities are as follows:

Attleboro, Beverly, Chicopee, Everett, Fall River, Gardner, Greenfield, Lynn, Marlboro, Melrose, Milford, Natick, New Bedford, Newburyport, North Adams, Peabody, Pittsfield, Springfield, Waltham, Woburn, Cambridge.

Haileybury, Somerville, Worcester, Boston, Braintree, Brockton and Easthampton.

Haileybury's excellent housing conditions today have no secret.

Building operations have been continuing with great regularity from year to year, with few labor troubles and apparently much money always ready for investors to place in building campaigns. The survey conducted in Haileybury was very comprehensive, and the city is placed on the satisfactory list in the Strauss report.

While the city of Lawrence is not mentioned in the list of cities studied by the national housing survey, Fall River and New Bedford were among the textile cities including Lowell, that came under the survey.

New Bedford shows a tremendous building shortage, apparently with an estimate of $4,500,000 needed to meet building requirements of all types. Fall River is far better off than either Lowell or New Bedford, the estimate covering the former city's needs in new housing campaigns, being only $600,000.

Brockton's "no shortage" is laid to the doors of the broken shoe manufacturing industry, that today is but a skeleton of former great civic prosperity and happy homes. The movement away from "The Shoe City" because of labor troubles, among other annoying problems, involving high costs in all branches of shoe manufacturing and the purchasing of the leather, transportation costs, etc., has left many vacant homes in the Brockton territory, where building operations today are no longer flourishing.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Smith's experience is but one of many.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 per cent. reported they were benefited by its use. Forsalchydruggia everywhere.

ANNA PAVLOVA COMING TO THE AUDITORIUM

Anna Pavlova, termed by one eminent critic, "the Adelina Patti among the Up-to-date artists," has spent eight of the last 12 winters in this country. The present tour, announced by her managers, S. Harrold, Inc., as the dancer's positive farewell, has proven one brilliant ovation after another since she opened her American season at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, in October. Last audiences greeted the incomparable Anna in the metropolis, the former Hammerstein music temple being sold out solidly for four consecutive weeks, while metropolitan reviewers proclaimed her possessed of the same grace and agility that have made her a continuous favorite with dance devotees all over the world.

Pavlova brought several new and sensational ballets which furnished surprises even for those who are familiar with her reputation for doing unusual things. Her supporting artists are dancers whose names are synonymous with their achievements in the realm of terpsichore, the distinguishing feature of the casts being that Pavlova has on four premiere danseuses instead of the customary one—Miss Laurent Novikoff and Miss Andre Volinine. Pavlova's last engagement here occurs on Tuesday, November 25, at the Lowell Memorial Auditorium. The seat sale is at Stevens',

COLONIAL HALL

The Stratfords will hold their weekly dancing party in Colonial Hall on Friday evening. Broderick's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. The popularity of this team is evidenced by the tremendous applause after each number and is an attraction in itself.

The Stratfords' holiday program is announced as follows: On Wednesday evening, night before Thanksgiving, a special attraction will be presented in the form of "Howard's College Inn Players of Salem, Mass., and on Thanksgiving night, "Jack Brown's orchestra" from the Hotel Hemingway, Boston, will feature the program. This team plays at the Chinese-Southern restaurant at Northbridge Park on Sunday and also broadcasts from the Emerson Electric station, "the Friends' voice," several times weekly. There will be no Friday evening party next week. It being supplanted by the two holiday parties on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Entire Fire Force Called

within a few days. The same condition exists in the Kresge Co., which was constantly menaced by the flames.

Discovered at 1:50 a. m. by Patrolman Thomas B. Riley, the fire had spread with amazing rapidity before the fire department could marshal its strength and second and third alarms followed at six minute intervals.

It is believed the fire resulted from a hot air explosion from defective wiring on the third floor of the Robbin building, used by the Wardell company for piano and Victrola storage and spread north and south to completely wipe out the top floor over the Wardell and Prince establishments. Over these two stores the roof collapsed, adding to the loss and ruin.

200 Victrolas, 30 Phonos lost. Although many times the fire men needed adjacent property, including the Masonic Temple, and threatened to jump across the alleyway into stores on the Middle street side, firemen held it in check and also prevented a general spread to floors below. It did break through into the second floor of the Wardell establishment, however, and destroyed beyond all salvage about 200 Victrolas and 30 Phonos. Pictures of the Wardell company on the third floor were burned to a net work of metal strings as they stand on the floor, with no opportunity afforded firemen or others to remove them.

On the third floor of the Prince & Son were stored thousands of books, stationery supplies and other articles held in surplus stock. Fire swept through them, leaving hardly a trace of their existence. The rear of the Prince store on the second and ground floors also was hard hit and so much water poured down on the extensive ground floor stock as to render it almost a total loss.

The Prince-Cotter Co., Jewelers, suffered extensively from water damage, with a slight fire loss in the repair balcony in the rear of the store. All goods in the store for the purpose of repair, however, were kept intact and great quantities of highly valuable articles were seen in vaults. Water on silverware on display will cause damage difficult to estimate, however.

No fire got into the Fidler establishment, although smoke and water left a heavy toll on four floors and in the basement which runs under the alleyway in the rear. A deposit of silt several inches thick stood on the basement floor this morning and hundreds of dollars worth of fabrics, dresses and furs were saturated with smoke and dripping wet with water.

The three floors of the Kresge Co., holding heavy stocks of varleties, were water soaked and here, too, the extent of damage is hard to figure. Only slightly in the rear was the Kresge building, owned by Harry G. Pollard and Harry Dunlap, touched by fire.

All three alarms were sent in from

Box 26, at the square. Flames shooting through the roof of the Robbins building above the Wardell and Prince stores cast a ruddy glow over the sky that could be seen from points far distant. The first impression was of a serious conflagration and despite the early hours hundreds of spectators were on the scene almost as soon as the department.

Actually all of the fire was confined to the rear of the buildings involved and although smoke透ated through into Merrimack street no flames were visible there except under the roof. Water tower streams aided greatly in keeping the front of the building intact. The fire was fought principally from the rear alleyway and from within the Wardell and Prince stores.

P. G. Church & Co. carried insurance as follows: Kresge building, owned by Harry Dunlap and Harry G. Pollard, 114-122 Merrimack; Robbins building, estate of Nancy P. T. Robbins, 104-112 Merrimack; Thomas Wardell, stock and fixtures, 110 Merrimack, G. G. Prince & Co., Inc., stock at 103 Merrimack and contents, 57-63 Middle street; Prince-Wallace Co., contents at 57-63 Middle; Fidler's Novelty Ladies' Outfitters, contents in Merrimack street store. Insurance also is carried by Church for R. J. MacCartney & Co., Cole's Inn and The Telegram Publishing Co., under which claims may be made for water damage.

PROPOSED RAID ON TREASURY

Here is something that involves fresh discrimination against New England in the matter of waterway improvements by the federal government at enormous cost.

The short session of congress next month will have to consider two bills of the "pork barrel" kind, providing for many hundreds of waterway improvements under the direction of the federal government and to be completed within a period of five years.

The bills are sponsored by the Mississippi Waterway association and provide for the completion of all the river and harbor improvements thus far approved by the engineers of the war department and adopted by congress. They are widely distributed throughout the country; but principally in the south and the west, very few of importance being in New England.

There are series of these proposed improvements on rivers and creeks that have never been heard of outside their immediate district. It is claimed by the proponents of these bills that if enacted, the legislation will forever remove the uncertainty of completing the country's inland waterway development work, and place upon a firm footing the supplementary water transportation made necessary by recent industrial growth and development.

One of the bills provides for an appropriation of $200,000,000 to be taken out of the current revenues of the government to be used in completing all the projects in question. The other bill has the same purpose and involves the same projects, but provides for a bond issue in the same sum, the bonds to be sold by the government, to be redeemable after ten years from the date of their issue and payable within a period of thirty years.

To a district such as that of the Merrimack Valley, it must be somewhat aggravating to read over the vast list of unimportant rivers and creeks that are to receive attention by the government, while others such as the Merrimack river, one of the most important in the United States, is rejected. It seems that either the claims of the Merrimack river have not been presented with sufficient emphasis or else there has been deliberate discrimination against New England. The Atlantic Deep Waterways association at its convention at Newark, N. J., last September included the Merrimack river in the list of inland waterways that should be developed by the federal government through an arrangement with the government of the state. But the Merrimack is not considered in this great blanket bill for the improvement of such "important" waterways as Alligator Creek, South Carolina; Deep River, Cowell river, Muddsue, North Carolina; Bear Creek, Kentucky; Big Muddy river, Illinois, and hundreds of others equally unimportant as compared with the Merrimack, Wisconsin, Oregon, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Alaska, Oklahoma and other southern states are to score heavily on this attempted raid upon the treasury through one of the biggest pork barrel propositions ever put before congress. Moreover, the probability is that the sum mentioned would be insufficient to complete the numerous projects undertaken and that another demand for perhaps an equal amount would be made later in order to complete the work just started.

Everybody will admit that the federal government should provide against the frequent flood calamities in the Mississippi valley, but it appears that in order to put across the legislation asked for on this particular river, the Mississippi Improvement Association has planned to gather in practically all the improvements that have been lobbied to the front and to call for their completion within five years. The New England delegation should oppose this movement unless the Merrimack and some other much needed improvements be included. Should this legislation be adopted, it will be much more difficult thereafter, to secure consideration of the Merrimack, which must be made navigable eventually if the industries of the Merrimack Valley are to be given an opportunity to escape the burdensome freight rates that threaten their extinction. Lower freight rates alone would enable New England to defy the world in competition. A navigable river alone will offer the competition necessary to bring down the rates.

SPAIN DISTURBER

In Spain, a revolution is threatened as a result of the failure of the army to suppress the Moors. As usual in such cases, the commanding general is blamed for failure, when as a matter of fact, he simply retired before the onslaught of the enemy in order to save his forces from annihilation. But the critics at home will accept no excuse for failure. They expect their generals to conquer without providing the forces or the equipment necessary to make victory possible. Moreover, the only way in which Spain can conquer the Moors is by slaughtering vast numbers of them which Spain cannot do and which is not desirable, if she could.

The time has probably arrived when Spain cannot control the Moors and when the Moors believe they can get along much better without Spanish rule. Whether they can or not, they are anxious to cast off the Spanish yoke and become their own masters, a quite natural aspiration.

WOMEN'S CONVENTION

The convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs brought to Lowell a highly respectable and representative body of women. It is hoped they have been favorably impressed by our city, our Memorial Auditorium and our great textile factories. The convention could not be accommodated for our splendid Auditorium, which is the delight of all visitors. It is hoped that this convention will be but the first of a series of such conventions for which the Auditorium furnishes such ample accommodation, not only for general assemblies but banquets and committee work.

CARDINAL LOGUE

For forty-five years, the late Cardinal Logue was a prominent figure in Irish affairs, always striving for peace, harmony and good will. In the stirring events of recent years his counsel was rejected, but he always pleaded for the rights of Ireland and her people. He did not approve the idea of drawing a sectional line in Ireland. He felt that all the people should be united in working for the best interests of Ireland under a central government and in this he voiced the conviction of the Irish people.

"CRUSOE"

"Robinson Crusoe" continues as the world's best seller with the exception of the Bible, though it was first published 205 years ago. "Robinson Crusoe" is printed in 32 languages. Its tremendous popularity is sometimes explained by pointing out that it is, in effect, a history of civilization. Its strongest appeal, strangely enough, is to people who would like to get away from civilization.

SEEN AND HEARD

A man in Alabama, who may think it is hereditary, has adopted the family of a late moonshiner.

Detroit woman says she shot a man because she loved him. Better throw a few dishes at your wife.

The Seattle wife asking divorce because her hubby cut her hair may claim it was barbarous treatment.

Makes Head Necklaces

William Stover of Norway, Me., makes head necklaces in his spare time. He has several in five and seven strands made with small beads in designs, equal at least, to the best Indian made on the market. His latest is one with 17 strands containing 17,000 glass and metallic beads.

Grasshopper Fence

Fields in Western Texas are being closed in by mile after mile of the fences six inches high. These tiny fences have proved the best defense against the invasion of grasshoppers. The insects are able to jump no higher than five inches from the ground and are unable to clear the fencing.

Plane Vocabulary

Teacher—What scholar can tell me what is wrong with this sentence, "Ain't dinner ready?" Doctor—It should be: "Hasn't a sufficient portion of nutritious substances been prepared for the noon-day meal?" Allston Recorder.

Dad Burned It

"Hey, pan," said Hank Hayfoot, somewhat frantically, "lookit, varo." "All right, I'm a lookin'." "What did you do with that cord of Hickory I sawed and split before I went to the county seat?" "Fed the stove with it endurin' of that last blizzard," Dad said. "Dad it!" "That's what I done," said dad cheerfully.

Mind Your Own Business

A woman stopped here the other morning and asked for permission to blow up her dress. When she had put in 110 pounds, she said: "I am putting in too much air, will blow out your tree?" "O, no, I won't," she replied, "my husband told me to put in 60 pounds a week, and we are going away for three weeks."—Literary Digest.

Directions From Expert

Down in a small Southern town a motorist stopped at a hotel to seek directions to the next village. A lanky youth ambled to the door. "Hey," asked the tourist, "how far is it to Hickman?" "Wuuu," drawled the youth, "I don't rightly know. But I'll tell Jed. Jed's traveled all over, Jed has, Jed's got shoes!"—American Legion Weekly.

New Library Girl

A young lady was given a position in a public library, and the first applicant for a book sent her on a quest that had not ended when the superintendent happened along. "How about the new girl?" asked that functionary of the clerk at the desk. "Has she had any previous experience?" "I fear not." "Why do you surmise that?" "This edition has asked for 'Arabian Nights' and she is still looking among the K's."

More Needed

A minister's little daughter was attending her first church service, at which her father presided. On his entrance, she was greatly surprised, and cried out in joyful recognition. "Why, there's my papa up in that box!" Father and mother swooped down upon her, and the little girl was ennobled to keep silent. But the service was long, and the wee woshipper got very tired. Mother whispered that it would soon be over, but baby-nature had reached its limit of endurance. Walking into the aisle, she coquettishly asked, "Isn't you nearly done, papa?"—Detroit Free Press.

Plane Stopped It

The local all-round sportsman met the vicar, who was returning home with the fishing tackle. Stopping, they talked for a moment, and then the sportsman, who prided himself on being a great angler, and often said so, inquired: "Hello, vicar! Any luck?" "Yes," replied the vicar tapping his basket. "I have a trout in here—a pound and a half—that I pulled out from the lower brook." "O, that's nothing," bragged the other, swelling out his chest. "I've caught dozens of fish of two pounds and over in that stream." "Ah, but you have the advantage of me," complained the vicar. "Advantage? Advantage, vicar!" exclaimed the sporty one. "Same brook, and you have better gear." "I know that," retorted the reverend gentleman. "But you just remember that I am a person, and you're not."

Antithesis

Brave men may burn and maidens sigh. And both be willing as devout. Yet, there'll be fools to wonder why The fight went out!

Strong men may take themselves to task. And others know themselves remiss. But always there'll be fools to ask Before they kiss!

—Leslie Nelson Jennings in Breezy Stories.

NEW SCHEDULE AT THE COMMODORE

Tonight at the Commodore ballroom, "Mal" Hallett and his orchestra will play for dancing from 8:30 until 12. All the latest and popular musical numbers will be featured, including new hits from New York.

Manager Roano will try out a new policy—admission 40 cents with dancing free. The room is in perfect condition and with Hallett's troupe playing wonderful music everything is just right to insure the patrons of a pleasant evening. Come early and enjoy the long program.

Hallett's orchestra will play again on Saturday night, the admission being the same as tonight.

FIRE IN WORCESTER

25 Persons Endangered by Fire Believed Caused by

Pyromaniac

WORCESTER, Nov. 20.—Twenty-five persons were endangered early this morning by a fire which police believe had its origin at the hands of a pyromaniac. Only the prompt discovery of the flames by the three decker on Washington street and immediate action by the adjoining houses saved the six families from serious danger.

The theory that the fire was of voluntary origin was advanced by the police after an investigation had revealed that it started in a nearby shed and spread with such rapidity that the adjoining houses were menaced before the firemen could begin their fight against the flames. The damage was $2,600.

The police disclosed evidence of attempts to fire several other buildings in the vicinity within the past few days.

A determined investigation to discover the identity of the person or persons believed responsible for the fires will be started today.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The Broadway Social and Athletic association never conducted a better event than the 11th annual banquet last Tuesday night. An array of well-known speaking and entertainment talent added to the enthusiasm of the occasion, but the biggest hit of all came when Humphrey O'Sullivan, an honorary member of the association, came forward with the generous offer to donate a large sum of money as the first step in a proposed building extension program.

Following the gift, President Walsh intimated that a drive for funds will be conducted throughout the city in the near future in the hope that the necessary amount may be raised to allow the club to extend its various activities.

Al Brown flyweight boxer, is 5 feet, 9 inches tall, but weighs only 112 pounds. Yet he's a very hard hitting.

The average man of the same height and weighing no more wouldn't step into the prize ring for a mint.

Brown has self-confidence which, in fighting as in life, can counteract a lot of handicaps—provided you haven't too much. Yet better to have ten much than not enough.

To young men who are wasting precious time, and to parents who are neglecting their children's health, we recommend the following from "Forty Years in Newspaper Work," autobiography of Milton A. McRae, the newspaper publisher:

"The brevity of life is a startling thing when analyzed. A generation is only a little more than 33 years. One-half of the human race dies before attaining the age of 17; one-quarter before the age of 7."

Complex problems have simple solutions. Milton A. McRae, in his auto-biography, tells how he built up the St. Louis Chronicle in 1887. It was a penny paper, but handicapped because St. Louis did not use pennies for change in those days, a nickel being the smallest coin.

McRae ordered $10,000 worth of pennies from the mint and got them distributed by inducing local merchants to price goods at 49 and 98 cents instead of 50 cents and $1.

With pennies in their pockets, people bought the penny paper. Its circulation in one year jumped from 7000 to 25,000.

GETS BROADCAST FROM THE LEVIATHAN

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as, like an endless chain system, the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidneys, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles, and neutralizes the urec held which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmor & Co., Blighton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores—Adv.

Harvard Plans Punting Game in Attempt to Stop Powerful Yale Eleven on Saturday

BUTLERS AND O.M.L. CADETS TO PLAY THANKSGIVING DAY

Arrangements Complete For Annual Football Game Between Traditional Rivals—Alumni Field To Be Scene of Championship Clash

It's on! One week from today—Thanksgiving afternoon to be exact—the much-disputed question of who is the better team in it pertains to the O.M.L. Cadets and the Butlers who will definitely settle when these two star aggregations come together at Alumni field. Arrangements for the hectic clash have been completed by John D. Cotconcerned. Their particular forte is football, and for years they have waged relentless warfare in the supreme effort to land city titular honors.

This season's schedule has found both outfits participating in several important games. The Butlers have won every game on their list with the exception of the St. Peter's whom they

CRIMSON BENT UPON KICKING OUT RAGE OF BULLDOG

Some Harvard Toe May Be Uncovered Which Can Cope With Powerful Eli Offense—Crimson Maps Out Plan With Punting as Last Resort to Prevent Rout

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(By the Associated Press) The final eastern jousts in a season teeming with football fever will be fought on frozen fields Saturday.

Crushed, Harvard will burst into the Yale bowl bent upon kicking the rage out of the bulldog and the kick will come into prominence when the contest starts. Some Crimson toe may be uncovered which can cope with powerful Eli offense, and Harvard's devastated toe may find the heart to catch the bulldog while the kicking is done.

The Cambridge plan, always hidden until the first whistle sounds, appears to be a rushing attack at the start in the hope of rout, employment of the forward pass which Dartmouth used with such success against Cornell a week ago—then, if fate intervenes, a running game which will keep the blue army from getting away, will attempt to strike the first blow and make that a solid one, battering down the enemy until the teams are on even terms.

Yale also will turn to the forward pass which accomplished the defeat of Princeton, and Scott, a clever kicker, will be ready to score at any point within the Crimson territory.

The mere announcement of the staging of this Thanksgiving day game should suffice to warrant a capacity crowd at the historic battlefield. The rival players need no further introduction to the fans of Lowell. Past performances speak volumes for them individually and collectively. They promise to be in rare form for the big matinee.

To Managers J. D. Cotter and P. W. Walsh of the Cadets and Butlers, respectively, fans owe a lot for this annual attraction. Intensely interested in the development of wholesome athletics in the city, they have labored unceasingly in seeking the dreams of man realized in their unselfish activities that the Butlers O.M.L. game was made a permanent fixture in the local world of sport.

This announcement meets with unanimous satisfaction in local football circles for it clears up the misapprehension that the proposed tilt had been called off after the Butler-St. Peter's game last Sunday.

In order to account for the fans with the probable knowns for this classic, the rival manager will present their list of players to the newspapers for publication Saturday. All other arrangements will have been securely settled by that time, and the fans may look forward to one of the greatest gridiron sensations ever attempted in this city.

All other arrangements will have been securely settled by that time, and the fans may look forward to one of the greatest gridiron sensations ever attempted in this city.

Since time immemorial, the Butler A.A. and the O.M.L. Cadets have been bitter rivals wherever athletics were played to a 6-6 tie on the Fair grounds last Sunday. The O.M.L. Cadets suffered a heavy loss in the hands of the University A.C. of Peabody, but this setback only served to spur the soldiers on to greater effort.

The mere announcement of the staging of this Thanksgiving day game should suffice to warrant a capacity crowd at the historic battlefield. The rival players need no further introduction to the fans of Lowell. Past performances speak volumes for them individually and collectively. They promise to be in rare form for the big matinee.

To Managers J. D. Cotter and P. W. Walsh of the Cadets and Butlers, respectively, fans owe a lot for this annual attraction. Intensely interested in the development of wholesome athletics in the city, they have labored unceasingly in seeking the dreams of man realized in their unselfish activities that the Butlers O.M.L. game was made a permanent fixture in the local world of sport.

Percy W. WALSH Manager Butler A.A.

ter, manager of the O.M.L. Cadets, and Percy W. Walsh, manager of the Butler A.A. The plans call for the staging of the game at Alumni field at 2.30 o'clock sharp on the afternoon of the traditional competitive and impartial officials in charge.

This announcement meets with unanimous satisfaction in local football circles for it clears up the misapprehension that the proposed tilt had been called off after the Butler-St. Peter's game last Sunday.

In order to account for the fans with the probable knowns for this classic, the rival manager will present their list of players to the newspapers for publication Saturday. All other arrangements will have been securely settled by that time, and the fans may look forward to one of the greatest gridiron sensations ever attempted in this city.

PRES. COOLIDGE SAYS NATION FACES TIMBER EXHAUSTION

Calls for Specific Program of Timber-Saving in Opening the National Conference of Utilization of Forest Products

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President Coolidge today asked for a specific program of timber-saving in opening the National Conference on Utilization of Forest Products.

The nation faces timber exhaustion, the president warned, and the situation must be met, he insisted, by diminishing waste and increasing the supply.

The resources of the nation are in trust, Mr. Coolidge declared, subject to use by the present generation, administered free of monopolies and from those "who will unwisely permit them to be dissipated," but there must be restoration as well as use.

About 740,000,000,000 cubic feet of timber is left in this country, he pointed out, and against this supply there

U. S. INTERESTED IN BRITISH REQUEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The British request that discussion of the Geneva disarmament protocol be deferred aroused interest in administration circles in Washington. The first impression was that the Geneva disarmament conference project might be imperilled, but explanatory dispatches from London clarified the situation somewhat in representing Premier Baldwin as merely desirous of delay in order that the British opinion could be formulated with greater care.

NOT TO TAKE UP GENEVA PROTOCOL

GENEVA, Nov. 19.—The secretariat of the League of Nations today confirmed yesterday's announcement from Paris that Great Britain had requested that the coming session of the league council in Rome should not take up the question of the Geneva protocol on security and disarmament. Officials here regard the British request as based on the desire to observe empire policy by carefully consulting the dominions on the various aspects of the protocol.

POPE TO HOLD CONSISTORY

ROME, Nov. 19.—Plans are being drawn up for the ceremonies which will open the Holy Doors of the Basiliacs, other than St. Peters, formally ushering in Holy Year. The Messenger states that the pope will hold a consistory toward the end of this month to designate a cardinal who will have charge of these functions.

FIRE DESTROYS HANGAR AND FOUR PLANES

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 19.—Fire today destroyed the main hangar, four planes and a big stock of United States army airplane repairs at Hatbox flying field.

HERRIOT'S ATTITUDE ON FRENCH WAR DEBTS

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Premier Herriot's attitude on the war debts of France will be the same as that of Poincaré when he was premier. If the question comes up at the finance minister's conference in December on the division of the German reparation payments, according to information from official circles today. The French delegate, it was stated, will declare France intends to deal with the debts as a business matter, without any appeal to settle-

DIG FOR BODY OF SANBORN

Sheriff and Two Men Begin Search for Body of Man Missing Since 1910

Action Follows Finding of Body of Alphonse Cote, Who Married Mrs. Sanborn

GORHAM, Me., Nov. 19.—Deputy Sheriff Eugene F. Norton and two men today began digging and probing in a field and near a knoll in the vicinity of the farm of Mrs. Alphonse Cote, whose husband was murdered on Nov. 7 and whose body was found buried there Saturday night. This search was made to recover the body of her first husband, William J. Sanborn, who disappeared on June 20, 1910.

Miss Cote is held without bail for the grand larceny on the charge of being an accessory before the fact to the murder of Cote, for which Charles H. Fielding of Portland was bound over to the January term of the superior court on the charge of murder. Fielding is charged with having shot Cote after luring him to the woods near the Cote place. He is alleged to have buried the body, with the aid of Ralph B. Sanborn, 19-year-old son of the missing man, after dark the same day. Lucius F. Libby, an East Windham farmer, pointed out to the officers the spot where he had suspected for the past 14 years that Sanborn was buried, after he had observed what he described as newly turned earth at the time of Sanborn's disappearance. This was about 300 yards from the place where Cote was buried in newly ploughed ground and about 200 yards from the Cote farm. Nothing was found there.

Then attention was given to a depression in the ground nearby which might have been caused by a grave. The digging was still in progress at noon, two hours after it was begun.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

LYONS, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The will of Pilling L. Sexton, of Palmyra, long a member of the New York State Board of Regents, has been probated in surrogate's court here. The will disposed of an estate, the value of which in the petition was given as more than $1,000,000, in personal property and the same amount in real estate.

CHICOOPEE, Mass., Nov. 19.—Three men were overcome and one may die of illuminating gas poisoning here early today. Andrew Zickey, Harry and Richard Dutcher were asleep in one room when a tube became disconnected from a gas heater. All were unconscious when discovered but the Dutcher brothers were revived.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—John W. Davis and his wife sailed on the French liner Paris today for three months of recreation in Mediterranean countries.

PENN YAN, N. Y., Nov. 19.—On the death charge of Donald Morrow, 13, of Milo Mills, near here, that he had been intentionally shot by a companion, investigation has been reopened in the shooting Sunday while the boys were at target practice.

TIENT SIN, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The tangled governmental situation in war-torn China became more complicated today.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Robert F. McAllister, former policeman and former national indoor sprints champion, today was acquitted on a murder indictment growing out of the shooting of Vincent Fighera, a clerk, last August.

HAVERHILL, Nov. 19.—The shoe board through Edwin Nowick, chairman, today denied the Shoe Workers' Protective Union general increases in piece rates for assembling women's McKay and welt shoes and the cases were dismissed.

INDEPENDENCE, Calif., Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Jeff Hession, district attorney of Yolo county, announced today that he was leaving immediately for Sacramento to advise Governor Richardson to send state troops to the Alabama gates of the Los Angeles aqueduct, where ranchers were wasting the Los Angeles city water supply.

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Workers and trades union members throughout the world are urged in a special joint appeal issued by the Communist International, the Red International, Trade Unions and the International Organization of Young Communists, to protest against the conviction of Nicoll Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, more than three years ago, for the murder of a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree, Mass.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Nov. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tumulty of Washington, D. C., arrived in Rochester today and were registered at the Mayo clinic. It is understood Mrs. Tumulty is to undergo an operation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Republcan senators and assemblymen who will control the next state legislature, will be "forced to accept the wishes of the people, as indicated by the election of Governor Smith," James J. Walker, democratic senate leader, said today as he sailed for England on the Aquitania.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 19.—Ex-penses for candy listed among the returns of many candidates of their election day filed with the secretary of state are the first ever recorded since the women began to participate in politics, officials said.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Chicago's new cotton market will open Dec. 1, the directors of the board of trade have decided.

EL PASO, Nov. 19.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, not a candidate for secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Coolidge, he held here today in communing upon resolution before American Federation of Labor in convention, endorsing him for that post.

MALVY TO FIGHT CASE

Not Satisfied With Amnesty

To Insist Upon Complete Revision of Case

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Louis Malvy is not satisfied with the amnesty voted him by the senate yesterday. It is declared, and intends to insist upon a complete revision of his case.

Many senators who sat in the high court which convicted the former minister declare that, had they been presented with such a certificate of character during the trial as that which former Premier Poincaré gave M. Malvy on the floor of the senate yesterday, they would never have condemned him.

FARM LEGISLATION

Early Action at Short Session of Congress Appeared Improbable

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Early action at the coming short session of congress on farm relief legislation appeared improbable today in view of the announcement by farm bloc leaders that agricultural legislation has been somewhat relieved, and the resolution by Pres. Coolidge to investigate and to take no action along that line.
